Thousands of Miners Refuse To Return to Pits

No Contract, No Work, Big Units Tell Operators

Pennsylvania Locals Cast Heavy Vote against Returning

Big Test Comes Today When All Locals Are To Make Decision

PITTSBURGH, June 23. (AP)—The back-to-work movement of the nation's striking 521,000 miners proceeded at a slow pace tonight, as many locals of the United Mine Workers with thousands of members voted flatly against any resumption of operations without a union contract.

The first four locals reporting a vote in the Johnstown-Altoona district 2 of the union—Windber, St. Michael, Barnesboro and Central City—voted against work. The four have 3,500 members. Leaders said 500 attended the meeting at Central City and only two voted to go to work, while seven voted in favor of work at St. Michael, which has 550 members.

Confusion at Connellsville
Uniontown reported great confusion existing in the Connellsville coke region, heart of the rich coking coal area and the center of the steel company-owned "captive" mines.

The Colonial four local of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, with 1,400 members, voted against working and when the Colonial three local of the same company, 800 members, voted to work, the Colonial four group announced it would picket the Colonial three mine tomorrow morning.

Organizer Hekled
Organizer John Kramrich of Uniontown district four went to the Colonial four group and asked that they reconsider and to work. "Who are we working for, anyway?" a heckler greeted him. "I say what's the use of paying dues to John L. Lewis when we are working for the government?" The lateness in receiving telegrams from Washington caused a delay in action by various locals. Operations today were very spotty. The big test is expected tomorrow morning when all locals will have had time to vote on whether to end their third walkout in seven weeks.

Showdown Near On Food Control

WASHINGTON, June 23. (AP)—Both houses of Congress worked today toward a showdown on the whole issue of wartime food control, with special emphasis on subsidies for price rollbacks. Most sweeping of the proposals under consideration was the one before the House Agriculture committee, which would vest full control of all food matters—production, transportation, distribution, pricing, and rationing, in one food "czar," against the expressed opposition of the administration. Chairman Fulmer (D-SC) predicted after today's committee session that the bill would be reported tomorrow for house action. The senate, meanwhile, labored over a long series of proposals to put more or less drastic limits on government spending in support of proposed rollbacks in consumer prices.

20,000,000 Tons of Coal Lost In Brief Series of Mine Strikes

WASHINGTON, June 23. (AP)—Statistics in the fuel administrator's office estimated today that the coal strikes in the last seven weeks had cut coal production more than 20,000,000 tons and War Production Board officials figured they had resulted in a loss of from 75,000 to 100,000 tons of steel. The estimate of coal production loss would mean a loss of at least $2,800,000 in wages, based on the calculation of the National Coal Association that the average labor cost of producing a ton of bituminous coal is $1.39. Anthracite labor costs run higher, but no figure was available here.

MEET ARMY'S YOUNGEST MASCOT

PROBABLY the youngest mascot in the United States Army is three-year-old Patricia Brepan, who has just been named mascot of the Ninth Armored Division's Maintenance Battalion in Chicago. She is being saluted by Pic. Charles Wyse of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Muelheim, Nazi Steel City, Under Terrific Attack

Hundreds of RAF Bombers Also Pound Parts of Invasion Coast

By JAMES M. LONG
LONDON, Thursday, June 24. (AP)—Hundreds of giant RAF bombers crashed the Ruhr steel city of Muelheim in a moonlight attack Tuesday night, while twin-engine bombers pounded the invasion coast late yesterday to keep the Allied aerial offensive rolling at a mighty pace.

Coastal residents at Folkestone also cheered when a formation of flying fortresses roared back to their British bases yesterday after a cross-channel expedition which as yet has not been disclosed officially. The RAF's block-buster raiders smashed and burned targets at Muelheim despite desperate German resistance which took a toll of thirty-five British heavyweights. Late yesterday British bombers and Typhoons escorted by fighters attacked targets at Meutle, St. Omer and Maupertus in France, destroying two enemy planes without loss to themselves.

Muelheim in the bomb-pocked German Ruhr was slammed by hundreds of RAF four-engine bombers last night, with bombs starting many fires that "soon joined together" and sent flames leaping hundreds of feet high, the air ministry announced. One pilot reported concentrated fires "for about two square miles."

Germans Hard Hit
The new fires started there brought from the German radio the statement that "what the population of these areas (the Ruhr) has had to endure lately is unbelievable for everyone who has not witnessed such a raid."

The fleets of British bombers that aimed a wipe-out blow upon Muelheim in the Ruhr flew into that heartland of German industry with fires of destruction still visible in Huls, pounded by Flying Fortresses Tuesday, and from Kregeld, smashed by the RAF Monday night. One pilot said Kregeld looked "like a circle of smoldering ashes."

Muelheim Is Steel Center

Troops Called To Ford Plant As Precaution

Federal Soldiers Summoned because of Disturbances

DETROIT, June 23. (AP)—After keeping a watch over production for more than four hours, federal troops were withdrawn today from the aircraft division of the Ford Motor Company's Rouge plant where they had been stationed as a precautionary measure.

DETROIT, June 23. (AP)—Federal troops were brought into the aircraft engine division of the Ford Motor Company's Rouge plant today, a company spokesman said, because of "certain disturbances which had occurred in the plant" and also to guard against the possibility of further disorders. The troops were stationed in the plant where Pratt and Whitney aircraft engines are being assembled.

There was no immediate comment from army sources on the move. Meantime, mass prosecution of 500 misdemeanor and felony cases proceeded as Gov. Harry F. Kelly and Mayor Edward J. Jeffries announced they planned to hunt out the "real inciters and assaulters" of Monday's bitter race rioting. (Continued on Page 11, Col. 3)

Ice Deliveries Give Baltimore Cause To Worry

Thousands May Soon Be without Necessary Refrigeration

BALTIMORE, June 23. (AP)—One Baltimore ice company will stop deliveries and others may follow suit as result of the manpower shortage, an action which will affect thousands of homes not having electric refrigeration, officials of the concerns reported today.

The Wiskow Ice Company, serving approximately 1,800 families in West Baltimore, announced it would discontinue deliveries after Saturday. Loses 19 of 24 Men
George Wiskow, a partner in the company, said that nineteen of his twenty-four employees had been drafted or had left to enter war work. After Saturday, he said, persons needing ice must go to the plant for it and take it home themselves.

However, some of the firms reported that, barring unforeseen contingencies, deliveries would continue without interruption. A spokesman for one company said that in previous years the ice companies were able to hire husky school boys to help during the summer with deliveries. This is impossible now, he said. Several of the companies are in (Continued on Page 11, Col. 4)

Air Raid Trial Held in Seven Eastern States

Flying Fortresses Fly over Wide Area in Practice Blackout

BALTIMORE, June 24. (AP)—Flying Fortresses flying northward from Virginia touched off a seven-state practice blackout and air raid trial tonight, darkening out all of Southern and Eastern Maryland. Few incidents were reported, although from various Maryland communities came reports that blue and red signals had been confused and, in some cases, given at the wrong times.

The blackout started in southeastern Virginia and moved northward with a flight of six "enemy" bombers across Washington and the eastern sections of Maryland. Eighteen other planes following them represented friendly craft.

Lasts Two Hours

The test lasted for more than two hours, although there was some confusion as to the time of the actual all clear signal coming shortly before 11 o'clock.

George Carter, chairman of the Baltimore committee on civilian defense, asserted that the third service command had called radio stations and ordered an all clear. He said the all clear should have been authorized by civilian defense officials from the army's own filter at the same time as radio stations were notified.

Carter said there was confusion all over the city as a result.

First air force officials in New York said it would not be determined whether Baltimore was "bombed" until tomorrow, when the actual flights of the United States army bombers are checked.

Two Maryland State guardsmen, members of a "suicide squad" were injured during maneuvers at the Fifth regiment armory, guard officials announced.

Two Guardsmen Injured

They said the two men were crawling over a lot outside the armory door to "capture a machine gun nest" and were cut by glass from broken bottles. A crowd estimated at 11,000 persons watched the night's performance of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus in Baltimore without being aware of the blackout. The circus had been emptied from the trial.

Mistrial Declared In Viereck Case

WASHINGTON, June 23. (AP)—A mistrial was declared today in the case of George Sylvester Viereck, accused of violating the foreign agents registration act by failing to register fully as a German agent. Defense Attorney John J. Wilson, who asked the mistrial, said he had seen Miss Viola Fuqua, a juror, greet a government attorney in the case, John J. Reddan, yesterday afternoon as the jurors returned from lunch. Reddan explained that he knew Miss Fuqua some five years ago, that she was a friend of his roommate. Wilson said he was not inclined to assume any impropriety but would insist that a new jury be empaneled. A retrial was ordered for Friday.

Hundreds of New Secret Weapons Ready for Use against the Axis

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

AKRON, O., June 23.—The scope of American industry's development of new secret weapons is so huge that two years hence arms will only slightly resemble those in use now, the chief of the ordnance department's technical division declared today.

Major General C. M. Barnes of Washington said more than 1,000 contracts for research and development of new weapons now are in the hands of the nation's industry. "If the war lasts two more years, the weapons then in use will only slightly resemble those used at the present time," he told scientists dedicating the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company's new research laboratory. "Industry is doing a magnificent job of creating new devices."

The Bazooka, America's new rocket gun, already has scores of new military uses. The secret of the Bazooka is its two and one-half pound shell, containing an undisclosed explosive more powerful than

Two Japanese Ships Damaged In Heavy Raid

Allied Bombers Travel 2,000 Miles To Blast Macassar Strait

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Thursday, June 24. (AP)—Allied Liberator bombers hit a Japanese cruiser and merchantman in Macassar strait, the high command announced today.

The two thousand mile raid on Macassar, between Dutch Celebes and Borneo, was one of the longest made in the Southwest Pacific by land-based planes.

On the ground fighting front twelve miles below Salamaua, New Guinea, the Japanese tried for the second straight day to crack Allied lines and were repulsed with sixty-four casualties.

"Our losses were negligible," the communique said.

Yesterday's communique told of a large patrol attack which was repulsed after the Japanese suffered more than 100 casualties.

Both attacks were made against Lababia ridge, held by Australians. The Liberators in their long raid struck at Macassar on Dutch Celebes, dropping thirty-eight tons of incendiaries and high explosives ranging up to 2,000 pound bombs. The docks were blasted as well as shipping in the harbor.

"Numerous hits on Juliana and Wilhelmshaven wharves and in the town itself started large fires visible twenty miles away," the communique said.

SPREADING ALLIED AIR RAIDS CAUSE ALARM AMONG GERMANS

By EDWIN SHANKE

STOCKHOLM, June 23. (AP)—The Nazis are obviously alarmed by the spreading intensity of the Allied air offensive and their newspapers are trying to prepare the Germans who have not yet experienced air raids for the shock of the "catastrophes" such as have struck Northwest and West Germany.

Adolf Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter in an issue received here today warned its readers to "guard against illusions. Nerves will be better steered if they are prepared than if one lapses into a false calm and at the decisive moment finds his nerves unequal to the sudden burden. For the attacks on cities are frequently equivalent to catastrophes."

Cautions Germans

The paper told every German not to be caught off guard and urged him to learn from the experiences of the bomb-shattered cities.

"Surprise is the most dangerous weapon of the enemy," it said.

Meanwhile Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels was touring the damaged areas seeking to comfort Germans with promises that (Continued on Page 11, Col. 2)

Women To Provide 50 Heavy Bombers To Attack Japan

Federation Plans Drive To Send Blockbusters into Enemy Territory

WASHINGTON, June 23. (AP)—A war bond campaign aimed at furnishing funds for a fleet of fifty heavy bombers to drop "block-busters" on Japan was announced today by the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. John L. Whitehurst of Baltimore, federation president, said the first aim was fifty heavy bombers, expected to be bought through the bond-selling efforts of state federations.

The 500 districts and 15,000 individual clubs in the nation are expected to furnish the wherewithal for medium bombers and pursuit planes, she said.

Mrs. Whitehurst declared that the drive would be for bond purchases over and above those now being made, adding: "The women of the country are alarmed because we haven't gotten after Japan. We want to go after Japan and give her a good bombing."

Under the rules of the campaign, the districts and individual clubs may buy any of the three types of aircraft. The purchase price of a heavy bomber was fixed at $300,000 for a medium bomber $175,000, and for a fighter plane, $75,000. The war finance chairman in the (Continued on Page 11, Col. 2)

Russians Smash Nazi Lines and Take Prisoners

Brisk Activity Reported on Central Front West of Moscow

LONDON, Thursday, June 24. (AP)—Russian reconnaissance units, feeling out the strangely quiet enemy, broke through German lines in two areas Wednesday to attack and to take prisoners, the Soviet information bureau midnight communique said today.

On the central front west of Moscow, after a preliminary softening by massed Russian artillery, a patrol broke into the German trenches, the communique said. In the engagement which followed more than 100 Germans were killed and prisoners were taken.

On the northwestern front the Red army soldiers penetrated German lines and in their rear organized a road ambush. When a German detachment approached the Russians shot and bayoneted fifteen, returning to their own lines with prisoners.

Baltimore White and Negro Leaders Consider Plans To Prevent Rioting

BALTIMORE, June 23. (AP)—A meeting of 100 white and negro leaders in Baltimore was called today to consider means of preventing racial clashes such as those which have broken out in Detroit, Mobile, Ala., and Beaumont, Texas.

Executive Secretary J. Harvey Kerns of the Urban League, an organization devoted to negro welfare, announced the calling of the meeting for tomorrow night.

The race riots in other cities "are strongly indicative of organized subversive design for hindering the war effort," Kerns asserted.

A prepared statement issued by Kerns said in part: "Unless the underlying causes of these tensions are understood and effectively dealt with, similar occurrences may happen in Baltimore and other American cities."

Asks Powerful Weapon To Use To End Strikes

Attitude Taken To Indicate He Will Veto Anti-Strike Bill

Praises Organized Labor as a Group, but Scores Miners

WASHINGTON, June 23. (AP)—President Roosevelt, describing actions of the United Mine Workers leadership as "intolerable," served notice today he will ask Congress for a powerful weapon to use in event of another coal strike—the authority to draft men up to age sixty-five for non-combat military service.

The chief executive's statement promptly was widely interpreted as meaning he probably would veto the anti-strike bill Congress has passed. This measure would permit fine and imprisonment of any person instigating or aiding a strike in a government-operated war facility. Organized labor has urged him to turn thumbs down on the bill.

Prepared for Action

Mr. Roosevelt said that before John L. Lewis, the UMW president, and the union's Policy committee issued their back to work order last night to striking miners, "the government had taken steps to set up the machinery for inducing into the armed services all miners subject to the Selective Service act who absented themselves without just cause from work in the mines under government operation."

He added in a statement:

"As the Selective Service act does not authorize the induction of men above forty-five years into the armed services, I intend to request the Congress to raise the age limit for non-combat military service to sixty-five years. I shall make that request of the Congress so that if at any time in the future there should be a threat of interruption of work in plants, mines or establishments owned by the government, or taken possession of by the government, the machinery will be available for prompt action."

Mines Run by Ickes

Mr. Roosevelt said that "for the time being" the mines would continue under operation of Secretary of Interior Ickes, the fuels administrator. The terms, he added, will be those laid down by the War Labor Board, and he emphasized that there was no promise or commitment by the government to change those terms.

Lewis made the miners' back to work order contingent upon government operation of the mines.

Weather Prevents Attack on Kiska

HEADQUARTERS, ALASKA DEFENSE COMMAND, June 23. (AP)—The weather has brought operations against Kiska to a virtual standstill. Even while the attack on Attu was under way, aerial assaults against Kiska were almost impossible due to the heavy Aleutian fog which began hovering over most of the islands about a month ago. It is still there.

No good flying weather is expected in June or July, and not much of it in August. Only May, September and October offer any particular hopes for the entire year. The rest of the time something is always the matter with the weather in the Aleutians.

Malta Bombers Blast Italian Railroad Yards

Mussolini's Major Lifeline To Repelling Invasion Hard Hit

By NOLAN NORGAARD
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 23 (AP) — Dealing heavy new blows to Mussolini's railroads — a major land lifeline in repelling invasion — RAF Wellingtons smashed marshalling yards at Salerno Monday night with two-ton blockbusters and Mosquito bombers from Malta spread havoc over railways in Italy and Sicily last night.

The Wellingtons, following up a Monday daylight raid by American Flying Fortresses on rail targets in Salerno, made bullseye hits in the freight yards and barracks in the junction town on the principal railway running from Naples to the toe of Italy.

All the attackers returned.

Malta Bombers Active
The speedy Mosquito bombers from Malta kept up the hail of damage last night. Marshalling yards at Sibari were bombed and gunned with cannon shells hitting an engine, trucks and station, and sidings at Licata and a factory at Trebisacce were bombed. A British communiqué announced.

Allied light bombers based in the Middle East attacked and sank some small enemy vessels off the Greek coast, a Cairo communiqué said, and all the Allied planes returned safely.

From North African bases, other Allied airmen flew out yesterday in patrols and reconnaissance preparing for new assaults, and headquarters announced that coastal air force planes sank a medium-sized enemy vessel off the southeast coast of Sardinia Monday night and attacked barges.

Rome May Be Bombed

(In London, an RAF commentator indicated that Rome might fall under Allied bombings, for he stressed that the Italian capital could definitely and permanently be considered safe only if it were declared an open city, and if the Allies were convinced that it was not contributing to Axis war strength.

"This, he emphasized, did not mean it had been decided to bomb Rome. The commentator, who cannot be identified, declared the sole purpose of bombing was to reduce the enemy's strength and resistance and bleed their war power to save Allied lives. Rome's military and industrial importance should not be overshadowed by the presence of the Vatican and other ancient shrines, he added.)

Reconnaissance pictures, the northwest African air force command announced, disclosed that forty per cent of the royal arsenal at Naples had been destroyed by Flying Fortresses and Wellingtons in heavy smashes at the great seaport and rail center for Southern Italy.

Roosevelt and Queen Wilhelmina Meet

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP) — President Roosevelt and Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, for the second time during the war met officially over the week end at Mr. Roosevelt's home at Hyde Park, N. Y.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early, who announced the queen's visit today, said he had no reason to believe it was anything more than "social."

Nevertheless, Wilhelmina was accompanied by Dr. Eelco Van Kleffens, the Netherlands foreign minister, and by her chief secretary, George Van Tetta, and there was ample opportunity in the seclusion of the Roosevelt mansion on the banks of the Hudson for a discussion of United Nations war strategy and the decisions made when Prime Minister Churchill of England came to Washington last month.

Governors Oppose All Labor Strikes

COLUMBUS, O., June 23 (AP) — The thirty-fifth annual governors' conference today expressed disapproval of "any strike by any group anywhere in America as affecting essential industries for the duration of this war for the reason that any such strikes or stoppages gravely threaten the security of our nation and endanger the cause for which we fight."

The conference in a resolution noted that "in too many instances affecting seriously the production of vital war equipment and material there have been strikes, stoppages and slowdowns of production."

The same resolution commended agriculture, labor and management for the results achieved by their respective groups for the war effort.

Saltonstall Heads Governors' Group

COLUMBUS, O., June 23 (AP) — Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts today was named chairman of the annual governors' conference for the ensuing year.

Named by the conference executive board, Saltonstall automatically becomes president of the council of state governments which is affiliated with the governors' conference. Saltonstall, a Republican, succeeds Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor of Maryland, a Democrat.

The conference executive board was increased from five to nine members. Re-elected to the board was Governor Herbert R. O'Connor.

WEAK SPOT IN THE AXIS' BALKAN DEFENSE

BECAUSE THE ALLIES can expect considerable aid from Yugoslav forces still in the field back of the coastal mountains, the Albanian and Yugoslav coasts may be the Axis weak spot through which Allied penetration of Hitler's Fortress Europe will be tried. This map shows the routes and points of possible entry. Timed with the landing of invasion forces, the Yugoslav guerrilla armies could strike the Axis defenders from the rear. The double blow could be disastrous to the enemy.

OWI Both Praised And Criticized

CIO Backs Agency, but Rep. Taber Says It Is "Utterly Lawless"

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP) — The American Newspaper Guild and President Philip Murray of the Congress of Industrial Organizations (CIO), with which the newspaper workers' union is affiliated, came to the support of the Office of War Information (OWI) today while Rep. Taber (R-N.Y.) assailed it as "utterly lawless."

The guild is a CIO-affiliated union of editorial, advertising, and other newspaper workers. Elmer Davis, director of OWI, was a speaker before the National Guild convention recently in Boston.

Murray Praises
"House action in cutting off funds for the Office of War Information threatens to end the life of a vital war agency that enjoys the confidence of American workers," Murray telegraphed Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.), chairman of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee which will consider the bill from which the House lopped all of OWI's $5,500,000 fund for domestic operations.

Asserting that "the five million members" of the CIO are "very much concerned with the need for accurate information on the progress of our war and x x x welcome the work of the OWI in this and in offsetting the effects of Axis propaganda," Murray urged restoration of the full domestic fund.

He sent a similar telegram to Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.), chairman of the House Appropriations committee.

Mrs. Fairfax Harrison Dies in Washington
WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP) — Mrs. Fairfax Harrison, 71, widow of the former president of the Southern railroad, died today at Doctor's hospital.

Mrs. Harrison had lived in Belvoir, Va., for the last thirty years and was chairman of the Garden club of Virginia's restoration committee. Last May she had received the club's Massie medal for "outstanding achievement in restoration work."

She was founder of the Potomac School in Washington and once its head.

Surviving are four children: Miss Constance Carrie Harrison, Belvoir; Mrs. Charles Baird, Marshall, Va.; Mrs. Gerhard Bieke, Baltimore; and Richard Fairfax Harrison, Belvoir. Her husband died five years ago in Baltimore.

Five Rationing Districts in Baltimore

BALTIMORE, June 23 (AP) — Rationing officials announced today they had divided the city of Baltimore into five price-panel zones in order to aid the drive of enforcement of Office of Price Administration price ceilings.

Consumers who note violations of the OPA rulings now must report them to the board having jurisdiction in the specific locality where the violation occurred.

Asks Powerful

coal mine owners a protest that government acceptance of Lewis's terms would penalize the owners who, they said, had complied in every way with the government's wartime labor policy while Lewis had defied it.

Edward R. Burke, one of those who took the letter to the White House, said they felt encouraged by the tenor of the president's statement.

Letter Kept Secret
The letter to Mr. Roosevelt was not made public. However, Burke said it was similar to a communication sent to Chairman William H. Davis of the War Labor Board (WLB).

The group asked that WLB insist that Lewis and the UMW sign a contract insuring "normal" operation of the mines and their restoration to their proper ownership and control.

To do otherwise, the letter declared, would be to punish the operators and to reward Lewis "for his defiance of government."

The belief that Mr. Roosevelt would veto the anti-strike bill was strengthened when he declared that labor in general has kept its no-strike pledge.

Scores Mine Workers
"Aside from United Mine Workers, the no-strike pledge by organized labor has been well kept."

Senator Connally (D-Tex.), one of the authors of the measure, made public, meanwhile, a telegram to the chief executive saying "the temporary suspension of the coal strike in no way lessens the urgent necessity and grave importance of your approval of the labor relations bill now on your desk."

The coal mine owners in their letter to the WLB declared the back to work order had settled nothing.

Roosevelt's Proposal Provokes Controversy
WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP) — Congressional comment indicated tonight that President Roosevelt's proposal to raise the draft age to 65 as a weapon against strikers would provoke a sharp controversy.

The legislators appeared to be pretty much unanimous, however, in interpreting it as meaning the president will veto the labor disputes bill Congress sent to him. Some said privately that an attempt undoubtedly would be made to override any veto, although Senator Connally (D-Tex.), co-author of the measure, would not comment on that aspect. The question of overriding a veto would come up first in the Senate since it was the first to pass the legislation.

On the president's proposal, Senator Johnson (D-Colo.), a member of the military affairs committee which would consider such a revision in the Selective Service act, commented:

Army Not Penitentiary
"The army is not a penitentiary. I don't think much of that suggestion as a way to settle the coal dispute."

But Senator Byrd (D-Va.) approved the proposal. However, he said he thought the president ought to sign the anti-strike bill for the effect that action would have in preventing future walkouts.

Congress, he added, then could consider the proposal to raise the selective service age limit.

Rep. Smith (D-Va.), co-author of the anti-strike bill, commented: "Membership in the armed forces is a position of honor and distinction. To use it as punishment for unpatriotic strikers is to convert the army into a penal institution and would be an affront to our boys who are engaged on the battlefields. A better solution would be co-operation with Congress in the enactment of adequate anti-strike legislation."

Wheeler Reports Cut In Draft Quota

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP) — Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) said tonight he understood the August draft quota had been cut from 238,000 to 150,000 and that corresponding reductions will be made in the monthly calls for the remainder of the year.

Wheeler, who is author of a bill prohibiting the induction of fathers at least until Jan. 1, 1944, did not disclose the source of his information. He said he did not know whether the reduction may have been made because the armed services had been getting more men than needed.

Selective service officials had no comment.

Crop Conditions Much Improved

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP) — Reports of improved weather and crop conditions, particularly in the midwestern grain, livestock and dairy regions, served today to ease official apprehension over 1943 food production prospects.

The Weather Bureau, in a weekly summary of crop conditions, said that the past week, on a country-wide basis, brought the most favorable agricultural weather of the season to date. This report brightened a picture drawn twelve days ago by the Agriculture department in a crop report which said prospects were at the lowest level in two years.

Plagued by early season droughts and floods, farm crops are beginning to make a markedly favorable growth, the bureau said, under such conditions as general warmth, abundant sunshine and adequate soil moisture.

DeValera Leading In Irish Election

DUBLIN, Thursday, June 24 (AP) — Eamon De Valera's Fianna Fail party was out in front early today in returns from Tuesday's general election, and the prime minister himself had won the seat for East Clare.

Martinique No Longer Problem For the Allies

Hot Spot of Caribbean Declared "on Ice" for Duration

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP) — Martinique, the hot spot of the Caribbean, is on ice right now — and likely to remain that way a while, despite French developments in North Africa.

That was the prediction today of D. C. Speaker, unofficial but well-informed capital observer who was asked how long Uncle Sam would permit Admiral George Robert to play second fiddle to Vichy.

Speaker stressed that not much could happen as long as the United States navy continues to keep Martinique figuratively under its guns.

"As French high commissioner on Martinique and Guadeloupe, Robert was recognized by the United States last year as the boss on those islands," said Speaker, the mythical District of Columbia news source who represents authentic but unquotable sources. "He was assured by informal agreements that the status quo there would not be upset by the United States so long as he co-operated in the safeguarding of the Caribbean against Axis intrigues."

Speaker said Robert co-operated to some extent, but swung back to Vichy when that government broke relations with this country after the Yanks landed in Africa.

"When the admiral chose to take orders from Vichy and refused to join the Allies in the fight to liberate France," D. C. continued, "the United States halted food shipments to Martinique and then withdrew its consul general from Fort de France and notified Robert it could no longer deal with an administrator serving Vichy."

"Then the Secretary of State Hull said the judgment of the U. S. navy would be the controlling factor in any further developments—which is where the matter rests now."

"Uncle Sam considers it pretty much a French problem, for French decision," Speaker said, "but meanwhile, the navy has the situation in hand and could take over Martinique very swiftly and effectively any time the defense of the Caribbean demanded it."

War Labor Board Approves Holidays

CLEVELAND, June 23 (AP) — The regional War Labor Board announced today retail, wholesale and jobber and service establishments in this region, operating on a six-day week, may grant employees a half-day holiday each week until September 15 without board approval.

There is no restriction on more liberal holidays if they conform to past custom or to contracts in effect prior to October 3, 1942, the board said, adding that such holidays could be granted without reduction in compensation.

The provision affects such establishments in Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky.

User Must Fill Out Ration Book No. 3

Cumberlanders now receiving their War Ration Book No. 3 through the mail are advised by the Maryland OPA that they are required to fill out the lower portion of the book's front page themselves.

Information that must be filled in on the new ration book's cover includes: Address, age, sex, weight and occupation.

Rationing officials pointed out that there has apparently been some confusion in the minds of applicants since the words "Local Board Action" appear on the face of the book. No notation is required by the local board and nobody need take his book to the local board to have it filled out, officials said.

COP HIT BY BOTTLE IN RACE RIOT

A POLICEMAN LIFTS a fellow officer to his feet after he had been hit on the head with a pop bottle while trying to quell the series of riots in Detroit between negroes and whites. President Roosevelt has ordered the army to suppress the rioting.

Mussolini Appoints New Secretaries To Bolster Morale

LONDON, June 23 (AP) — The Rome radio announced tonight that Premier Mussolini had appointed new Fascist secretaries to several points in Italy, Sicily and Sardinia in a shakeup presumably designed to bolster morale in areas being shaken by the sledgehammer Allied aerial blows.

The Italian broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, listed seventeen centers as receiving the new secretaries. Among them are industrial areas and ports which have staggered under recent Allied air pounding.

Changes in the directorates of some Fascist syndicates and associations also were announced in the broadcast, but no reason was given.

Vinson Turns Down Rail Wage Boost

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP) — The wage increase of eight cents an hour recommended for more than a million non-operating railroad workers was turned down today by Fred M. Vinson, stabilization director.

There were indications that a solution of the pay demands involved might be sought in application of time-and-a-half pay to working hours above forty weekly. The men, now on a 48-hour week, would receive an average increase amounting to a little over six cents an hour under such a plan.

President Roosevelt has indicated favor for the overtime pay for the non-operating brotherhoods, in line with the pay of other workers in interstate commerce.

Favorable reaction by the workers to such a solution was not assured. Heads of the fifteen unions expressed disappointment at the time the eight cent boost was recommended to the president by an emergency board May 26.

Russia's Second Front Plea Has Allies Guessing

May Be Merely Intended as Contribution to War of Nerves

By GLENN BABE

Associated Press Staff Writer

Moscow is reminding the Western Allies once more of the imperative need for a second front in Europe this summer. This may be just a contribution to the war of nerves against the Axis; it is difficult to believe that Joseph Stalin is not well apprised of an American-British program which he finds satisfactory. However that may be, the swing of the war raises the question whether the Russians are entitled to call their own titanic battlefield the first front.

Much Air Activity

For the moment at least, while the great Russian and German armies in the East remain inactive and the Allies are still in the softening up stage of their Mediterranean operations, the air over Western Europe is the primary theater of the war. The assault of the RAF and American air forces on the Ruhr and nearby industrial areas and Germany's countermeasures are drawing out more of the military resources of the two great alliances than any other phase of the war.

It is entirely possible that this is the primary reason that Hitler has not launched his widely expected 1943 offensive against Russia. It also probably accounts for reports from Allied air leaders in the Mediterranean area that the Italians are having to take over an increasing share of the ineffective attempts to shield the airbases, ports and industrial centers of Sicily, Sardinia and Southern Italy from the Allied air squadrons.

Full Campaign Sounded

The steady succession of the attacks suggested that the full scale campaign promised for this summer by the chiefs of the British and American bomber commands, Air Chief Marshal Harris and Maj. Gen. Eaker, taking one city after another and continuing round and round the clock, is fully launched. The Ruhr is getting a punishment beyond anything this suffering world has seen up to this time. Already dozens of German cities have felt the scourge of total war on a scale beyond the worst that London experienced on any one night at the height of the blitz. The Ruhr alone has been attacked by the RAF at least 50 times.

Nazi Output Declining
The German command dares not skimp on the resources it throws into this battle. The evidence grows that the curve of German war output is declining. There are indications that the people of the bombed districts are badly shaken and that this has its repercussions throughout the Reich.

HUSBAND OF LOCAL WOMAN IS KILLED IN AUTO WRECK

Capt. I. B. Sherman, husband of Mrs. Mary Larkins Sherman, of Cumberland, was killed in an automobile accident near Camp Davis, N. C., Tuesday morning, according to information received here by Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Larkins, 409 Bedford street, parents of Mrs. Sherman.

Larkins said details of the accident were vague and that he did not know how it occurred.

Capt. and Mrs. Sherman were married in Wrightsville, N. C., near Camp Davis, in May, 1942. He had been in the army for about two years and was assigned to an anti-aircraft unit.

The body will be sent to Boston, Mass., Capt. Sherman's home, for burial.

The Guards will train at Camp O'Connor, an area within Fort Meade, named in honor of Maryland's governor.

Approximately 2,500 men of Maryland State Guard units will go to camp.

The Cumberland companies will return Sunday, August 1.

ARMY COMBAT CARS ROLL THROUGH DETROIT

ARMED WITH HEAVY-CALIBRE machine guns, United States troops patrol a street in Detroit on an edict from President Roosevelt that race riots there must be halted. More than a score of deaths had occurred before the 2,300 Federal troops rolled into town to quell the worst outbreak in the city's history. The sight of the grim and armed guards had a quieting effect immediately.

All Have Voice In Ideal Home, Dr. Myers Says

Each Member of Family Respects Personality of Every Other

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.
A truly democratic home is one in which each member respects the personality of every other and strives to bring out the best in every other person of the family. To have this type of home the parents must be companionable and co-operative. Each should try to understand the other by putting himself in his imagination in the other's place. Both should have the same attitude toward the children and they in turn toward their parents.

All Have Voice
Every citizen of the state is allowed, even expected, to express his wishes about the rules for governing the entire group. Since the group is so large, representatives are selected to draw up these rules and other representatives to execute them and to see that justice and deserved liberty is had by all. To date, our democracy has held that those who are under 21 years of age, the mentally incompetent and the criminals are not fit to take responsibility for being these representatives or choosing them. Certainly in the family, the child may be able to assume considerable responsibility for his own liberty while also protecting and promoting the welfare of his family long before he is 21.

Obviously, the nature and degree of responsibility increases with his age, education and experience. It rests with the parents to decide just what responsibility he may assume. In the truly democratic home, the child is allowed, even required, to assume all these duties as soon as he proves able.

Test of Democracy
Until the parents of the truly democratic family are sure the child is ready to assume a certain responsibility they find effective ways to make him do things he should do and deterring him from doing things he shouldn't do.

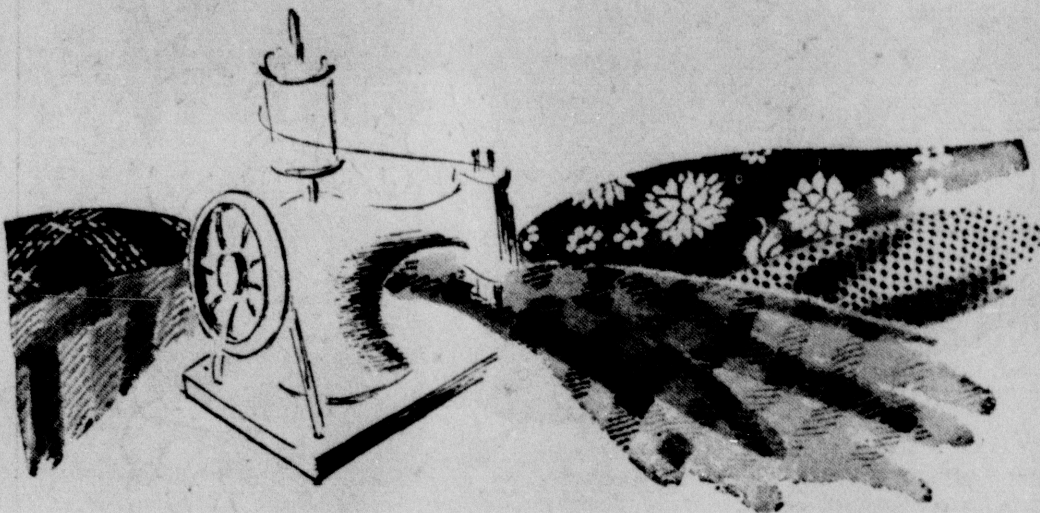

A test of democracy is in the parent's wisdom in these matters. Another test is in how well the growing child learns to respect the rights and feelings of his parents and other members of the family.

In an ideally democratic state, all its citizens obey its laws. In an ideally democratic home, children obey their parents and the rules of the family these children have helped make. No one in a really democratic family imposes on anybody else. All share, therefore, in the chores, drudgeries and duties.

The Sales Tax Side of It

MANY PERSONS rightly view the sales tax with apprehension. But, as Washington legislators are seriously regarding it as a possible resort in order to raise the added revenues needed to pay the bills of the huge war program, it is just as well to look into the claims of the sales taxers.

Representative A. Willis Robertson, of Virginia, has presented to the House a retail tax study prepared by Dr. Paul Haensel, economics professor emeritus of Northwestern university and recognized tax authority, which he believed of value as throwing some needed light on the viewpoints of sales tax supporters.

Dr. Haensel prepared a table showing that the burden of a ten per cent retail sales tax is almost identical with that of a straight five per cent income tax and a straight five per cent spending tax for all incomes within the brackets below $5,000. The sales tax would really be around five per cent of the whole income, it is explained, because only four items out of fourteen for which incomes are usually spent would come under the tax, namely, those for food, household operation, furnishings and equipment, and clothing.

Dr. Haensel says it is usually feared that with the rise in the cost of living a sales tax may considerably add to the tax burden of the lower-income brackets. "This is a great exaggeration," he says, "as far as present actual conditions are concerned."

Figures in the table presented, which are taken from bulletins of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, "show conclusively," the report says, "that a sales tax is a normal and rational substitute for an income tax in all the lower brackets up to the $5,000 level. Instead of trying to embrace the tremendous millions of taxpayers by means of a direct income tax it is technically much more advisable to raise the exemptions in the income tax and to replace the loss of revenue by a much simpler general sales tax."

"Of course, the sales tax does not exempt anybody, as an income tax, or a spending tax, is providing for. But still there is no justification of exempting anyone from at least a five per cent of total income contribution to the cost of war or social security. This is exactly what a ten per cent retail sales tax achieves in a simple way. It also has the great advantage over a spending tax, which technically is a nuisance for the lower brackets, where the cost of housing adds excessively to the burdens of the poorer classes, and which results mainly in an additional 'soak the rich' measure already too much abused in our present tax system."

"Any exemption in the spending tax contradicts its very substance and is absurd as a means of taxing the rich, who are already burdened with a highly progressive income tax."

"A sales tax is a much more effective means of checking people's expenditure during the war than a spending tax is able to do; the consumption of necessities by the comparatively few rich persons need not be artificially curtailed since their consumption (of some 300,000 persons having a yearly income over $10,000 with their families) is a negligible item in the total nation's food balance."

"A sales tax is badly needed if we really intend to improve our tax system and to increase the revenues of the Treasury in a fair and rational way. The alleged 'spiral effect' of a sales tax is the most unreasonable argument offered in the public finance theory. If we expect mass labor demonstrations against a modest ten per cent sales tax, actually decreasing the purchasing capacity on the average by only five per cent, and a demand for higher wages, why should a twenty per cent withholding income tax not encounter a much stronger opposition?"

"The policy of keeping prices low is not undermined by a universal tax measure which the population is expecting in time of war. On the other hand, nobody can suppose the same standard of living during the war as was possible in peace times. Widespread rationing always has the bad effect that many are buying more than they ever did before, be it butter, meat, coffee, canned goods, or other articles."

"Nobody is likely to go hungry simply because some of his expenditures will be charged ten per cent. A sales tax is a tax which taxes the whole population according to the amount of the spending, the rich more and the poor less. The usual exemptions in the income tax (as well as in the spending tax) are necessarily highly artificial and grossly unequal, since an exemption of $1,200 in New York, Washington or Chicago is very small in comparison with a similar exemption in Alabama or Mississippi. For this reason alone we must have a universal sales tax. Casual and irregular receipts, now concealed in the income tax, will be caught by the sales tax as soon as spent."

So, that's the sales tax side of it. It is interesting inasmuch as it is treated here not as an addition to the present taxes, as many have supposed, but as a substitute for it. One advantage over the withholding tax is that the taxpayer will have all his money to do with as he chooses, instead of having a large slice of it taken away from him before he sees it. Another advantage lies in the extreme simplicity of the plan for the millions of taxpayers below the $5,000 level, which is in sharp contrast to the present complicated and confusing system, and simplicity is one thing which has long been eeded in our federal taxing system. There is much plausibility to the method as here explained when placed in contrast to the existing unjust income tax measure, concerning which we can expect to hear much more in the near future.

Reinforcement Needed On the Home Front

THE COAL STRIKE has apparently been settled again but only for the time being and not permanently as it should be. It could have been settled long since had there been a fair, equitable, consistent and firm labor policy on the part of the administration.

Such a policy, of course, should have been accompanied with support by other policies in kind with respect to price control, war production, man power, centered responsibility and food production and distribution.

Failures in all these fields have resulted in strikes, which are intolerable in a critical period of our war effort; advance of inflation, food shortages, squabbles and dissensions and other retarding factors instead of smooth co-ordination and facilitated production.

Two things are obviously needful. One, of course, is a sane and just labor policy, which is as fair for the goose as for the gander; the other has been noted by the Kilgore subcommittee, namely, "unified direction of the home front" as "a primary need in order to support our military forces, which are mobilized and hold the initiative on all fronts."

This crisis on the home front cannot be settled by simple vote-catching appeasement nor wishful thinking, and the home front must be made sufficiently strong to support the great military effort else that be hindered and victory delayed.

Randolph Touches A Real Sore Spot

DISCUSSING his vote on the amendment to curtail the appropriations for the Office of Price Administration while in the city this week, Representative Jennings Randolph, of the adjoining Second West Virginia district, brought out a phase of his efforts on the measure worthy of commendation.

While Randolph could not see the need of curtailing the operations of OPA after it has gone thus far, he did recognize an obvious need for improvement in its set-up. He noted that he fought for a requirement that its personnel be recruited from persons having some knowledge of the fields in which they are to work. In his opinion persons with at least five years of experience in each particular field should be named instead of just any Tom, Dick or Harry.

Randolph touches there what many merchants say is a real sore spot in OPA administration. Too many of its appointees, they declare, do not know the first rudiments of the particular field of merchandising in which they are to regulate sales, prices, allotments and so on. The meat dealers have been specially exasperated and frustrated by the outpourings of persons in charge of restrictions governing them who don't know one cut of meat from another.

It is an old and wise saying that the shoemaker should stick to his last, and Randolph's effort deserves to be translated into law.

An increase in the demand for road maps is reported. The folks, it seems, have developed a great curiosity about the places where they won't spend their vacations.

An Indiana burglar stole $800 worth of stamps. He probably thought they were meat ration coupons.

Are You Lost?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I don't mean are you lost on the mountain-side, wandering around in circles, desperately shouting for help, thirsting and starving and giving up hope. I mean are you lost in the midst of human beings, as helplessly lost as you could be anywhere on this earth?

CAN one be lost when people are all around? Of course. You can be lost beyond hope in the heart of a crowd, if you BELIEVE that you are lost! You can be lonely and you can pity yourself, you can be most miserably unhappy, if you wish to be. And if you have that kind of disposition you can be lost forever.

Once in the heart of the woods the penniless philosopher Thoreau became separated from his companions and was not seen for hours. When he serenely rejoined them and was asked if he had been lost he replied:

"No, I was not lost! I was on this earth and could not be lost."

Thoreau was not lost because he was at home among trees, lying on mosses, watching wild animals. He might have felt lost in a CITY, but never in the woods.

I was lost once and was quite distressed about it. BUT I saw a slice of golden moon caught in the limbs of a bare, crooked tree, and I found an old man in a shanty who gave me all the bread and milk I could eat and drink and said I could use his bed and I came away with more than had been mine before.

So if you look around you, whenever you feel lost you will find that you are not lost at all or that it makes little difference if you are. You are still on this earth and cannot be lost. . . . Others may be lost but not YOU.

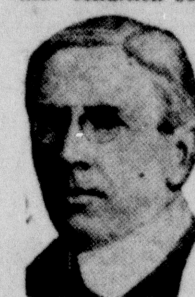

Marshall Maslin

Mark Sullivan Says Coal Strike Has Ominous Phases

By MARK SULLIVAN

Among several aspects of the coal strike, two are especially ominous. They can be measured by yardsticks. One is: At a time when some 8,000,000 Americans are under arms, when a large part of them are abroad in active combat with the enemy, at a time when the war is in an especially critical stage—in that condition some 500,000 Americans quit the production of a commodity basic in the production of our war supplies. By that they have brought about material reduction of the supplies upon which our soldiers depend, without which they run the risk of defeat.

Mark Sullivan

and as a certain consequence will be obliged to slow down their attack and cause the war to be prolonged. This is unthinkable—but it has happened.

The other can be stated thus: In a time of war, some 500,000 Americans gave to one private citizen, their union leader, an allegiance superior to their allegiance to the man who is at the head of the nation and the commander-in-chief of the armed forces. This fact is embedded in the record. The coal miners accepted the authority of their union head, and obeyed his direction; did not accept the authority of the president and did not obey his direction.

Lewis Is Obedient

In the first phase of the coal strike, President Roosevelt told the miners not to strike—and they struck. Two days later the union head, John L. Lewis, told them to return to work—and they returned to work. It is true that almost simultaneously with Mr. Lewis's direction to return to work was a similar direction by the president. But it was clear from the circumstances that it was Mr. Lewis whom the miners obeyed, that the authority of the president was ignored.

To look upon this only as an indictment of Mr. Roosevelt's labor policy over a period of some ten years would be incomplete and superficial. The greatest importance of the condition lies in its relation to the pattern of underlying trends, throughout the world. Mr. Roosevelt's labor policy, possibly without his fully understanding where it might lead, was likely to arrive, if retained, at possibilities which include two ominous ones.

Either it might end in a labor government, with authority resting in a labor leader or a group of them—the labor leader becoming, in the final stage, the formal head of government, perhaps through the ordinary process of a presidential election. This would be totalitarian government exercised by a class, the workers, analogous to the condition in Russia.

Fascist Alternative

In the other possibility, Mr. Roosevelt's labor policy, if maintained, might come to a crisis at which the government, finding labor union heads unwilling to accept the authority of the government, would dissolve the unions, forbid them to exist. This would be totalitarian government of the Fascist type as in Italy and Germany.

Against these possibilities we have some safeguards. One is the fact that no one labor leader is supreme over all labor, or even over a majority portion of it. The most aggressive of the labor leaders, Mr. Lewis, while he has extraordinary authority over his own union, is disliked by other labor leaders and members of other unions. It is ironic that Mr. Roosevelt, as a detail of his labor policy, has tried to bring about a condition that would now be most perilous to him and to the country. He has tried persistently to bring about unity of all labor in one group. Had he succeeded, the united group would inevitably have one leader, and this leader would probably be the one having the most aggressive temperament.

To visualize what Mr. Roosevelt and the country might now face, had he succeeded in bringing about unity of all labor in one group, imagine Mr. Lewis today, not as the head of a relatively small union, but as head of all organized labor.

Safer Leadership

Our other safeguard against these possibilities has been the wis-

QUESTION: HOW TO GET THE GENIES BACK IN THE BOTTLE

Need for Action in Home Front Crisis Is Stressed by Kilgore Subcommittee

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 23.—In almost the exact words of this column of June 16, a Senate Military Affairs subcommittee (Kilgore) announced June 22 that the civilian war economy is fast disintegrating and "a domestic front crisis" has arisen.

The committee has discovered what was already evident to every citizen of the country coming in contact with the domestic war effort. Anyone who has ridden on trains has noticed the progressive disintegration of transportation service to the point where now soldiers stretch out in the aisles to sleep or fold up in forbidden vestibules. Women with crying babies sit on suitcases throughout the night. Cars are jammed and packed to the point where a wreck would create a national scandal.

Every Little Bit Helps

From the Pittsburgh Press

Remember when you could pile into the car and go anywhere you pleased for a weekend or a vacation, when you could get a taxi at any time and ride in lovely splendor; when you were urged to buy the finest foods in the stores, in quantities; when you could get a Pullman berth shortly before your train left the station; when you could pay your income taxes out of petty cash; when that young friend or relative was safe at home, and never expected to go any farther away than Atlantic City or Peoria?

How times have changed in a short year or two! How we'd like to return to our old easy-going ways!

The only way back now, of course is straight ahead—straight ahead over a course that may be worse for many of us before it gets better. But we can shorten the course by bending our every effort to getting through.

We can hasten the return of unlimited motoring if each of us will limit his driving severely now. Unhampered travel will be ours the sooner if we will eliminate all unnecessary trips in public conveyances. We will cut short the life of food rationing, if we obey the rules to the letter. We will reduce our taxes and bring more of our boys home if we are diligent in buying War Bonds, collecting scrap, saving fats, giving blood to the Red Cross, raising victory gardens, and all the other little odd jobs that are the civilian's share in the war effort.

In other words, let's get down to work and get this thing over with as quickly as possible. Let's not forget that every little bit helps. Let's get really discontented—properly and intelligently discontented—with our times and the conditions under which we must live.

Factographs

A jaguar catches fish by sitting on a river bank and scooping its prey out as they swim by.

Martens have an unexplained large population increase every two or three years.

The kangaroo rat can stand on its hind legs and leap like a kangaroo.

Paul Mallon

The committee has discovered what was already evident to every citizen of the country coming in contact with the domestic war effort. Anyone who has ridden on trains has noticed the progressive disintegration of transportation service to the point where now soldiers stretch out in the aisles to sleep or fold up in forbidden vestibules. Women with crying babies sit on suitcases throughout the night. Cars are jammed and packed to the point where a wreck would create a national scandal.

You can see the same situation in hotels, restaurants, taxicabs, or grocery stores where services have been cut as much as seventy-five per cent while prices have been boosted as much as 100 per cent and continue to rise. Taxicabs load as many as five passengers, or as many as they can before the long-suffering public complains, but, of course, there has been no reduction in fares. Instead, fees for all services have increased.

Public Shoved Around

The public obviously is being shoved around in every phase of civilian life, paying sometimes two, three, and four times the regular price for greatly inferior service where service is available at all.

The government started this, urging civilians to accept discomfort as a patriotic duty, but this patriotic duty has been commercialized by business to the point where now the public is required to accept anything thrown at it, and pay whatever is asked.

The selfish, commercial exploitation of citizens in the name of patriotism has reached the point where it can no longer be ignored, even in Washington, where practically anything can be ignored. The committee is not so specific as the above cited incidents, but it mentions recurring strikes, gasoline shortages, food production, fuel restrictions, as leading to "serious impairment of civilian morale."

Complete Control Urged

The remedy suggested by the committee is somewhat along the same lines as in the column. I recommend that the Byrnes war mobilization board assume complete control over the sagging and conflicting government agencies and work out a complete domestic war economy—limiting food for lend-lease, if necessary; promoting increased food production, effecting economies in the defense services, etc.

The committee points in the same direction, demanding that the Byrnes over-all control appoint a board on requirements and another representing management, labor, and agriculture, to meet at regular intervals and work along these new lines of endeavor.

It is a sensational document even in the generalized terms in which it was written, although it does not seem to have stimulated much public attention. It says flatly that unless something is done, our civilian war effort will collapse and it holds that "a solid home front is an absolute necessity."

No Requirements Body

"Never in the present war have we had a genuine requirements committee to scrutinize carefully all military, lend-lease, and civilian requirements," it says.

It points out, as I did, that the Byrnes committee has all the power in the world but that reorganization will amount to anything depends solely on how strongly the committee now acts. It "must eliminate contests for power or the maintenance of prerogatives (among government agencies) which have been the cause of disintegration," the committee says.

On manpower, it demands "forthright establishment of over-all (democratic) manpower planning"—not drafting labor or arbitrarily uprooting of the population. It follows the same line as war under-secretary Patterson, who, only the day before, complained that a complacency among the workers was causing declines even in military production.

Many Shortcomings

In short, it confesses government "policy makers have substituted slogans for actions." "Meat shortages, food shortages, fuel shortages, failure to enforce price ceilings, the steady increase in prices, the freezing of wage ceilings; these are only a few of the well known shortcomings of policy which have eaten at the vitals of the American people. x x x Subsidies illuminate the lack of policy."

The Kilgore committee sometimes has been regarded as an advance trumpeting battalion for administration action. Only a day after it advocated formation of the Byrnes over-all control, Mr. Roosevelt acted along similar lines. This time, it seems even more certain that its recommendation may herald strong executive steps, because the need is even more obvious.

Inevitable Development

From the Morgantown, W. Va., Post

The violent reaction displayed in the House of Representatives last week against the Office of War Information and the Office of Price Administration was something more than a sudden flareup caused by recent developments in those two federal agencies.

In our opinion, the adverse ovation cast by such large majorities against the O. W. I. and O. P. A. were the inevitable development of the practice followed by the administration in ignoring Congress on vital questions of basic public policy—and in occasionally going directly counter to legislation enacted by Congress.

If it hadn't been the O. W. I. and O. P. A. some other federal agency would have furnished the occasion for this demonstration of congressional dissatisfaction with the cavalier treatment it has received from the administration.

Our whole domestic program of carrying on the war is threatened with a series of these incidents unless the administration has the good sense to see that Congress cannot and should not be ignored.

Criticism of War Effort Is Needed, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 23.—There are two schools of thought apparently among Americans today—those who want all criticism squelched, as it is in totalitarian states, and those who think the American republic can organize better for war when criticism is open and unrestricted.

David Lawrence

To those folks who discount all criticism as coming merely from political opponents of the administration or so-called Roosevelt-haters, to those who would rubber-stamp everything done by officialdom and thus hide from the American people the truth about their war effort, the report just issued by a subcommittee of the Senate Military Affairs committee should prove interesting reading.

This committee is composed of five Democrats. The chairman, Senator Kilgore, of West Virginia, and at least three others are New Dealers. They are not Roosevelt-haters or Republicans or isolationists or in any of the other categories in which wishful thinkers place all critics when they don't like to know the truth or to let the people learn the truth. The customary cry is that all criticism just gives aid and comfort to Goebbels—as if the American people pay any attention to Goebbels and as if it matters much what the Nazis think so long as we don't keep the truth from our own people.

Dangerous Sag

"In your committee's findings of May 13," says the Kilgore statement, "we reported that 'war mobilization is in crisis' and that 'the nation must undertake the integration of basic mobilization policies in the fields of manpower, production and stabilization' if we are to move on to victory. Since that date our home front has sagged even more dangerously. In the past month there has been a further deterioration of the domestic war effort and a lowering of morale which flows directly from failure to manage decisively the domestic economy."

"We are plagued by recurring strikes and by administrative failure to attack the root causes of unrest. . . . Recent labor unrest is more significant as a symptom than as a cause of disorganization of the home front. . . . But neither threats of compulsion nor exhortation can substitute for a rational organization of the domestic front. Only full mobilization can successfully counteract business-as-usual and labor-as-usual attitudes which have been and are now retarding war production. . . ."

O. W. M. Heartening

"The committee is heartened by the creation of the office of war mobilization. . . . It is timely to recall that earlier reorganizations of the war effort did not establish as over-all war program, although they gave substantial authority to individual war agencies, both with respect to program and coordinative powers. . . ."

"Despite the continued publicity over the volume of our war production, we still are not producing to the limits of our capacity. . . . while our armies and allies clamor for more production, huge stockpiles of war materials lie in warehouses, factories, and depots throughout the nation. . . . In no phase of the war effort has there been less planning and integration than in the field of manpower. Our approach to this urgent question has been a monotonous series of piecemeal and groping measures, unrelated to strategic and production decisions. . . ."

Domestic Front Worst Failure

"The most widely felt failure on the home front has been the failure to stabilize the domestic economy. It has sapped the sinews of our war effort. . . . Government spokesmen have developed no clear policies to integrate the various agencies dealing with economic stabilization. . . . Subsidies illuminate the lack of policy. . . ."

"It is only through planned, coordinated action that the present shortcomings of production and the deterioration of the home front can be cured. Unified direction of the home front is the primary need if we are to give full support to our arms and those of our allies."

Many Criticisms

The foregoing gives only a few excerpts. The report is full of pointed criticisms. It doesn't in so many words say that President Roosevelt is a failure as an administrator of the home front but, since his is the responsibility, such an inference is not difficult to make. The president has been a wise strategist in foreign policy and global war planning. But as an administrator on the home front he has made a poor record and the war effort is suffering because of it.

If, of course, the American people do not want anything said about this and prefer to eliminate all mention of these weaknesses on the home front, there are some who may feel that the war will be won in spite of such inefficiency, but there are many others who would feel better if more members of Congress showed the courage of the Kilgore committee and reported to the nation so that the processes of correction could be set in motion soon.

DeGaulle and Giraud Continue at Odds

ALGIERS, June 23. (AP)—Vexatious rivalries began today to plague the new permanent military committee, just created in an effort to unify French military power, and a new struggle between General Henri Giraud and Charles de Gaulle was in prospect on the issue of recruiting troops.

With the French armies of liberation divided in allegiance between two commanders in chief, Giraud and DeGaulle, Giraudists indicated that they would demand that recruiting be on the territorial basis, thus preventing the fighting French organization from taking manpower in this area.

The DeGaulleists complained that "freeze out" was being worked against them and also that men escaping from France were now being brought into Giraud's North African army despite their wish to serve under DeGaulle.

Altoona Barber Faces Execution

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., June 23. (AP)—A jury today convicted Michael Musto, diminutive Altoona barber, of the murder of his wife and recommended he be electrocuted.

The verdict came after ninety minutes of deliberation by the seven men and five women.

Mrs. Musto was slain on the steps of the courthouse here last April short time after she had won non-support suit against Musto.

Musto pleaded insanity, contending that a blow on the head suffered years ago in Italy had affected his mind. He testified he remembered nothing about the shooting.

J. Banks Kurtz, defense counsel and former congressman, cried while pleading with the jury to free this man whose mind is diseased.

New Rescue Tugs Save Torpedoed Ships, Cargo

LONDON, (AP)—The world's largest tugs are being built for the Royal Navy in British shipyards. Fast, well-armed, and capable of towing hundreds of miles out to sea, they can tow anything from a battleship to a huge passenger liner. Their wartime job is to pull torpedoed or damaged vessels to safety.

Almost equal tonnage to a medium-sized destroyer, these tugs can sit at sea on five minutes' notice. They are equipped with the latest devices; electric power from a dynamo works the winches, capstans and other gear; fire-fighting jets throw liquid chemical extinguishers as much as sixty feet, and powerful pumps can clear a flooded hold in short time.

Make OPA Inspectors Top Motorists

BALTIMORE, June 23. (AP)—Motorists in Baltimore and other sections of Maryland have been stopped and questioned recently by impersonators of Office of Price Administration inspectors, Cornelius Mundy, OPA enforcement attorney, reported today.

Mundy said the impersonators related established state OPA policies by stopping automobiles and by showing badges they proved themselves not OPA men, as official inspectors have no badges.

The purpose of the impersonations is obscure, he added, but the public should know that persons stopping cars and claiming to be OPA inspectors are impersonators.

Women Seek Most Of the Divorces

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Ninety per cent of divorce petitions that entered Knox county domestic relations court during the past three months were filed by women.

"The main reason for this," explained Judge H. B. Webster, "is that more wives are working now and are not dependent upon their husbands. Consequently, some are getting rid of their husbands."

Then, too a woman may obtain a cheaper divorce here than a man, the latter objecting to taking the pauper's oath.

London Solves Problem Of Milk Deliveries

LONDON (AP)—This city's milk delivery problem has been solved by a transfer of customers which has effected tremendous savings in manpower.

About 893,567 regular purchasers were shifted from one dairy company, enabling the firm to reduce its staff more than thirty-four per cent. The men released have gone into military service or war production.

It is estimated that another 4,500,000 exchanges of customers will have to be made in London before the scheme is complete.

WHAT HAPPENED TO FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

AFTER SEVEN WEEKS of intensive work, laboratory researchers have discovered the reason why certain batches of Fletcher's Castoria caused nausea.

Methods of preventing a recurrence of the trouble are now known and manufacture is being resumed.

No Fletcher's Castoria has been made during this seven-week period, and at its beginning the makers issued a nationwide warning to consumers and retailers not to use or sell the product and to return all stocks for destruction.

The U. S. Food and Drug Administration has been kept informed of all these developments.

Q. What caused the trouble?

A. The sugar content of Fletcher's Castoria was reduced to conserve sugar under wartime conditions. A year ago, Castoria was made with this reduced sugar content and was up to standard in every respect. This year, in March, we again started production with reduced sugar.

However, at that time a chemical change—harmless in itself—occurred in the characteristics of the water used in making Castoria. But this change, in combination with the reduced sugar, increased the degree and rate of normal fermentation. The more rapid fermentation retarded normal re-oxidation during the ageing process, resulting in a product which caused nausea.

Q. Why didn't normal tests show that something was wrong?

A. The changes which occurred were so elusive that they could not be detected by the regular testing procedures—procedures which had kept Castoria a respected product for more than seventy-five years. In fact, even after the nauseating effect was discovered in actual use, it took weeks of laboratory research to identify the factors that were causing the trouble.

Q. What are the makers doing to prevent a recurrence of the trouble?

A. Now that the cause is known, procedures have been put in effect which will assure normal re-oxidation of the product. Additional safeguards have been set up. New laboratory controls have been installed. New biological and chemical tests will be applied to every batch of Fletcher's Castoria. Each bottle will be stamped with a plainly visible control number, in verification of these tests.

Q. Is Fletcher's Castoria now on sale?

A. No. Manufacture has been resumed, but because of the time required for manufacture and distribution it may be about two months before Castoria will again be on sale at your retailer's. When it is, you will be notified in your local newspaper.

Q. Will the package be the same?

A. No. The Fletcher's Castoria now being made will bear a distinctive green band. This green band is for your protection in case any old Castoria has not been returned.

The Amazing Story Of THE BOY WHO GREW DOWN While His Sister and Brothers Grew Up

PERHAPS the most amazing part of this amazing story is that it's true. The name of this remarkable individual is Reddy Kilowatt, your electrical servant, and his growth, like that of his brothers and sisters in the Cost of Living Family, is measured in dollars and cents.

Even back in 1932 when our story begins, Reddy had passed his full growth and begun to shrink. He then stood only 64 1/10 per kilowatt hour high. His brother Market Basket, sister Clothes and brother Housing had also lost a little weight but they were just dieting while Reddy was really "growing down." And strangely enough, while Reddy was shrinking in cost he was growing in usefulness and strength, becoming busier and busier, learning to do more and more things for you and making life and work easier and pleasanter for people everywhere.

Here's how this Cost of Living Family looked in 1932:

THE COST OF LIVING FAMILY IN 1932

The years went by and in 1937, we find the family, with the exception of Reddy, taking on weight rapidly. Brother Market Basket had gained 22%, sister Clothes had put on 13% and Brother Housing was up

Meanwhile, Reddy had continued to shrink. He'd lost 21% and now measured only a very little over an average of 5c per kilowatt hour. This is how the family appeared in 1937.

THE COST OF LIVING FAMILY IN 1937

But time marched on and in 1941 came first the defense boom and then—war! Every member of the family was vitally important now and in great demand. Growth was rapid. Let's see how they compared the first of this year 1943. Brother Market Basket was a strapping chap, up 54% over his 1932 measurement. Sister Clothes was 39% higher than she was in 1932 and still growing. Only Brother Housing seemed to have perhaps reached maturity, his rise having stopped at 8% over 1932.

Meanwhile, our amazing friend Reddy was still shrinking. He'd come down 30% BELOW his 1932 mark and now measured an average of only 44c per kilowatt hour, and that's where he stands today. Here's the latest picture of this family you all know so well.

THE COST OF LIVING FAMILY TODAY

Where will this amazing chap end up? He's at his lowest point in cost and his highest point in use. He's one fellow whose use hasn't been rationed and has met every demand and every need for his vital war services. It's almost impossible to predict his future. Possibly, but not likely, he may begin to grow. More probably, he'll shrink some more. But only time will give the answer for this is a story that is— (To be continued)

The rest-pause that refreshes
Welcome in peace...
more welcome in war work

MANAGERS and personnel directors will tell you that regular rest-pauses plus the refreshment of ice-cold Coca-Cola increase contentment in their plants. Thus production is increased. A pause for Coca-Cola is a little thing in itself, but one of the little things that brighten a busy day.

You might think it strange that workers have such a welcome for a 5¢ soft drink. But Coca-Cola has something all its own in goodness. Made with a finished art, its taste always pleases. More than just quenching thirst, it brings a happy after-sense of complete refreshment. The only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola, itself.

The best is always the better buy!

A breathing spell, a rest-pause and ice-cold Coca-Cola. Contentment comes when you connect with a Coke.

Letters from plant managers from coast to coast emphasize that the little moment for an ice-cold Coca-Cola means a lot to workers in war plants. It's a refreshing moment on the sunny side of things... a way to turn refreshment without turning from work.

Rationing Spotlights Mistakes in Diet; Points Way To Change in Food Habits

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
The other day in this column I gave room to the outburst of my old friend, Dr. Adrian Gibbs, on food habits. It was to the effect that during the present crisis if diabetics and dyspeptics could appear before the ration boards and get consideration for their disabilities in food points, a man who, like himself, had been eating meat and potatoes for sixty years should have some consideration also.

I do not think he was entirely serious, but I find that the National Research Council, has anticipated him and has appointed a Committee on Food Habits. In the course of the last two years this committee has been developing a systematic approach to the problem of food habits in American culture and the methods which may be used to change those habits in times of crisis, such as these.

That so eminent a body should take cognizance of such ideas, indicates that probably they do have some bearing on the adjustments and especially the maladjustments that are being made during the emergency.

Some tentative results of the research have been published. In interviewing a number of Americans and foreigners and comparing their food habits, it is evident that the American attitude has been greatly influenced by the fact that we have always had more than an abundance of food of all kinds, whereas the European, even in times that could not be described as those of economic depression has had to make adjustments in ordinary food habits by the pressure of necessity and limits of supply.

American Attitude
The American attitude is that if you eat enough food that is good for you (whether you like it or not), you are then permitted to eat a good deal of food that you like, although it may not be theoretically good for you.

This psychological attitude is evidenced by the fairly well ingrained reactions of the ordinary cook, housewife, and mother. For instance, men and children are supposed not to like vegetables. It is woman's responsibility to see that the family eats vegetables, by coaxing the children, cajoling the men, by camouflaging the disliked vegetables in different ways, with sweets and desserts used as rewards.

A group of American mothers frankly don't understand how they could get the children to eat what is supposed to be good for them without bribes, and yet in many areas of the world—in highly cultured areas—it is not the habit to have desserts as part of the meal at all. This American attitude, as conditioned by the mother's coercion, has resulted in a state of mind whereby the growing boy can express his rebellion against parental control by revolting against certain foods.

These and other results may appear somewhat fantastic and super-psychological and yet it seems to me that they have a good deal of sound basis. The one lesson is that children should be encouraged to eat as great a variety of foods as possible and there should be established early in life a real liking for a variety of foods. I can only say for myself at the present moment that one of the faults of my upbringing is being presented in glaring clarity to me. I wish my parents had taught me to like noodles and spaghetti.

Questions and Answers
C. H.: Can you tell German measles from common measles? How long after exposure do you catch them?

Answer: Differential diagnosis between German measles and measles is not difficult for one who has had experience. German measles does not have the same severe coryza and eye inflammation that measles does, the patient is not as prostrated and there is a little lymph gland behind the ears in German measles which almost never appears in measles; nor is the eruption similar. The period of time between exposure and contagion in measles is seven to eighteen days. In German measles it is about the same.

Any Other Name Will Do Nicely

DENVER (P)—When the zone mailing system was adopted in Denver, Postmaster James O. Stevie placed a notice in newspapers with this example:

"John Doe, 1051 So. York St., Denver (zone) 9, Colo."

That night a woman called Stevie by telephone and said she had read the notice in the newspaper.

"As I understand it I have to change my name to Doe and I don't like that name," she protested.

No Binoculars or Cameras at Beaches

BALTIMORE, June 23. (P)—Vacationers bound for the beaches this summer can save themselves an extra burden—and perhaps some embarrassment—by leaving their cameras and binoculars at home. Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord said today.

The commanding general of the Third Service Command reminded the public that Eastern Defense Command proclamations forbid taking of pictures or use of binoculars in restricted areas along the Atlantic seacoast, including most ocean beaches from Maine to Florida.

There are about one million square miles of lake and river surface on the earth.

Deaf Mute Held As Check Forger

BALTIMORE, June 23, (AP) — A man identified by Federal Bureau of investigation agents as Harry Long, 26-year-old deaf mute, was ordered held under $1,000 bond by Commissioner James K. Cullen today for removal to Pittsburgh.

FBI agents said he was wanted in Pittsburgh on charges of forging three government checks, each for approximately $50. An interpreter informed Long of Cullen's decision to "remove him as soon as possible."

Q. What Are They?

A. The Aleutians, Pal

U. S. SOLDIERS wallow in mud on the chew line on Amchitka Islands in the Aleutians.

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN

AP Features
AN ALEUTIAN ISLAND ARMY BASE—Out here where the wind blows, strong men cringe when they get a letter from home, and cover their eyes when they see another magazine article about the Aleutians.

They cringe because they are sure the letter will ask them about how they like the Eskimos. The following questions and answers, not entirely complete, are intended as a guide to families and friends of Johnny-in-the-Aleutians.

Not on the Map

Q. Where is Johnny, anyhow? I can't find him on the map.

A. That's because he's off the edge. The combat zone in the Aleutians is bounded on the East by the Andreanoff group of islands and extends westward to Attu. On the ordinary map of Alaska or the North American continent, these islands are shown only on an inset, because they lie west of Hawaii, and Attu and Agattu lie west of the 180th meridian. Dutch Harbor is now more than 600 miles from the scene of current action. The rest of Alaska, although heavily garrisoned, is for the moment clear out of the combat picture.

Q. How is Johnny getting along with the Eskimos?

A. Well, Auntie, if he's in the Aleutians, not at all. The nearest Eskimo is about a thousand miles northeast of him. Johnny's present hide-a-wee was once occupied by some Aleuts but has been virtually uninhabited for fifty years or so, and entirely so since June, 1942. When the last natives were evacuated, Johnny may see a few abandoned native shacks, trappers' cabins or an occasional barabara (native sod house), but he'll see no natives.

Cold Weather?

Q. How's Johnny getting along in the sub-zero weather?

A. The weather is punk, but it seldom gets below zero. Johnny's seen lots of snow, more rain, 100-mile-an-hour winds, but he hasn't frozen to death. On the flat parts of the combat area, thaws have been so frequent all winter that the snow has never been more than a foot deep, seldom that much.

Q. How about girls?

A. The favorite answer out here is that there is a girl behind every tree. Of course, there aren't any trees.

Animals and Things

Q. I'm afraid Johnny will get mixed up with some wild animals or clawed by a bear.

A. Not in the combat zone, lady. The blue fox is ornery, but he's little and lonesome. There are no bears west of Dutch Harbor and virtually no other wild animals except the foxes, which were put on most of the Aleutians for their pelts. Johnny will see ravens, eagles, gulls, seals, possibly some sea otter, some queer water birds called sea parrots and all kinds of fish, from trout to white whales (the latter frequently are washed up on Aleutian beaches dead). But nothing will bite him except the mosquitoes, which are enormous and blood-thirsty.

The male of the oceanic angler fish is four inches long, the female forty inches.

GUNNER WITH NEW ARMORED VEST

GUNNER SERGT. E. L. FREDERICK of Norwalk, Conn., wears armored vest, reminiscent of the mail tunics worn by knights of Middle Ages, as a protection against shrapnel and shell fragments. Personnel of United States heavy bombers will be so equipped.

Albatross Brings Luck to Sailors

BALTIMORE, June 23—(AP)—That an albatross brings a sailor good luck—an old seafaring superstition—has a new meaning for a Baltimorean, Ellsworth Flowers, Jr. A maintenance man on a United States merchant ship, Flowers was one of fourteen torpedoed merchant seamen who drifted on the Indian Ocean on a life raft for six days before being rescued.

During the first two days after their ship was torpedoed, two planes flew nearby but failed to notice them.

An Albatross floated near the raft for several hours one day. Some of the men wanted to kill it. Flowers related, but others reminded them the bird was a symbol of good luck for seamen.

A sail was raised, and on the seventh day an Allied plane sighted the raft and a British warship picked up the men.

Flowers joined the merchant marine last fall. A brother, Richard H. Flowers, is an ensign in the navy.

The first Fresnel lens for light-houses was installed in the Beacon at Cape Henry, Va., in 1841.

Jap Submarine Sunk by American

WASHINGTON, June 23. (AP)—Destruction of a Japanese submarine by torpedo fire from an American submarine on war patrol in the Pacific was disclosed by the navy today in announcement of a decoration for the commanding officer of the American vessel.

The officer, who received the silver star medal, was Lt. Commander Marvin G. Kennedy, 37, of Henrietta, Mo.

The citation given to Kennedy said that the Japanese submarine was sunk despite adverse conditions due to poor visibility and rain squalls when Kennedy sighted it on the surface "close aboard."

There have been few other instances in the past in which submarines have successfully attacked other submarines.

Dies Committee To Probe Riots

WASHINGTON, June 23. (AP)—Recent racial disturbances including the Detroit race riot which took more than a score of lives will be investigated by the Dies committee during public hearings starting next week, Chairman Dies (D-Tex) disclosed today.

Dies said the hearings, originally called to inquire into Japanese activities and the method of releasing Japanese from internment camps, would be broadened as a result of reports by committee investigators indicating that the Detroit rioting resulted from "combined operations" of foreign and domestic propaganda groups.

The committee, he said, has evidence that Japanese agents working through established organizations, had promoted racial prejudice in the Detroit area presumably to interfere with war production and to break down home front morale.

Majority of deaths occur during the daytime, on weekends, and in winter.

It (gambling) is the child of avarice, the brother of iniquity, and the father of mischief.

Shipyard Couple Married in Hurry

TACOMA, Wash., June 23. (AP)—This is romance in the shipyards: "They met on No. 1 hot slab where Rosalie worked as a burner." In this way, Keel, publication of the Seattle-Tacoma shipbuilding Tacoma yard, reported the meeting and marriage of Jack Carter, leadman shipfitter, and Rosalie Whydra.

Saw about Love
Is Proved True
By Angry Mother

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous
Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage—Copyright, 1943,
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

In courting a girl, we've been told that perseverance is like the steady dropping of water on a rock: in time it wears away the resistance.

But in the case of Private R. we have an example that in love, as well as other things we may encounter dross in the stuff of which maxims are made. Here's the story:

Makes 139 Calls
Miss B., a charming young woman (we have his word for this) became engaged to a gallant soldier, Private R., with the distinct understanding imposed by Miss B.'s mother, that they were not to be married until the end of the war. But Private R. found the duration worse than the war. So he polished up the old saw concerning the magic of perseverance, laid in a stock of nickels and proceeded to lay siege to the heart of Miss B. by telephone.

Miss B. was reliably reported to have answered his pleading with a firm negative for the duration of 139 telephone calls, paid for by nickels in the slot, and amounting to a grand total of $6.95. Then she said the word that made it appear the copy-book maxim about wearing away resistance and rocks was exactly right.

However, there was a one hundred and fortieth call, made by Miss B.'s mother. She announced no wedding bells would ring. And that any ringing of Miss B.'s number would be in vain, for Miss B. could not come to the telephone to speak. That was that.

Man among Men

The experience of Private R. and his telephone siege of his fiancée sends into the discard another famous maxim, that "all the world loves a lover," for Miss B.'s mother felt the exact opposite toward Private R. She was good and mad.

My sympathy is decidedly with Private R. Particularly because the majority of men would have faltered after feeding perhaps eighty or ninety nickels into the slot. But Private R. is a man among men. He was prepared to spend every nickel in circulation.

It's too bad he was ringing the wrong number.

By discharging our duty thoroughly and well, subordinating personal desires to principle, and personal ambition to an exalted love of country, we will not only receive the endorsement of the people, but, what is far better, we will deserve their endorsement.

Several rural delivery routes have been eliminated, he continued, and the men have doubled up on the remaining routes.

Many Turn Out To Help Harvest Big Bean Crop

Clerks, Boy Scouts, Housewives and Others Assist Farmers

SALISBURY, Md., June 23 (AP).—Answering anxious appeals from Wilcomico county farmers, clerks, housewives, boy scouts and citizens in general responded today to help harvest the commercial bean crop.

Eighty-five men and women reported at the county courthouse during the early morning, and County Farm Agent James P. Brown said that stores and other commercial establishments had called him to say they were releasing up to fifteen employees each for harvesting work.

Two Boy Scout troops, numbering about thirty boys, went to the bean fields independently, and approximately thirty scouts from Baltimore and twenty more from the Salisbury area were to report at a farm labor camp set up today.

Plant Workers to Help

The release tomorrow for ten-day periods of 135 employees was announced by the Jacobson shirt factory, and other plants who scheduled ten-day vacation periods for the tomato picking season the latter part of July and the first of August.

On their way from New Jersey to help were 100 Bahamians.

Brown said the response to the plea for help was general throughout the county to aid in lessening the existing shortage of 1,000 farm workers.

One of the largest canneries on the Eastern Shore placed its workers on two ten-hour shifts, releasing some employees for bean picking.

Some Crops Lost

Several farmers, meanwhile, reported their crops had passed the peak and would be plowed under. Two others who said they had 2,000-bushel crops stated only 200 bushels each had been harvested before it was too late.

An appeal to agricultural officials and farmers was sent to Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, commanding general of the Third Service Command, Baltimore, offering the Salisbury army for the quartering of any troops assigned to harvesting.

Yesterday, Mayor I. Virgil Hitchens declared a state of emergency and he urged every person who could possibly aid in the bean harvest to report for work today.

The crisis occurred when the end of the fresh market crop in beans overlapped the beginning of the canning crop, farm officials said, and they pointed out that available farm labor was insufficient to harvest the crop before it spoiled.

Coal Mine Peace Gives Market Lift in Both Volume and Prices

By BERNARD S. OHARA
NEW YORK, June 23 (AP)—Continued settlement of the coal labor controversy gave the stock market a lift in prices and volume today.

Most rail and industrial leaders were in higher ground from the start. In the final hour a few slipped away from the tops rather fast while others pushed up to new peaks.

Despite their vital interest in the coal situation the steel stumbled near the close. Chrysler, on the other hand, made a last minute spurt for a gain of 2 points.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite rose 4 of a point to 50.8. Transactions amounted to 830,230 shares compared with 698,170 Tuesday.

Speculative contingents kept a watchful eye on sources determining matters relating to inflation controls and taxes but the day's developments in these realms were not of material concern excepting economic stabilization director Vinson's disapproval of the 8 cents an hour wage increase awarded by a special panel to non-operating railroad employees. This, incidentally, helped the carrier stocks to close around their best levels.

Up to a point or so at the close were Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, Owens-Illinois, Harvester, U. S. Gymnasium and Standard Oil of California. Fractionally improved were General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Douglas, Air Reduction, duPont, Eastman Kodak, Standard Oil (N. J.), Texas Co., Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Great Northern, Chesapeake & Ohio, and Southern Railway.

The bond market recovered its forward momentum after exactly a week of slippish performances.

Rails paced the upturn with gains of fractions to around 2 points. All other major groups shared liberally. In the advance, especially the higher-priced industrials and utilities which averaged the best quotations in several years trading activity rebounded sharply, sending sales to $11,001,800 from $7,241,000 on Tuesday.

"My Favorite Spy" Now Showing at Garden

Now playing at the Garden theater is "My Favorite Spy," starring Kay Kyser. A thoroughly entertaining comedy, the film has an excellent cast that includes Ellen Drew, Jane Wyman, Helen Westley, Robert Armstrong and, of course, Kay Kyser's Band.

Also on the Garden's program today is "Halfway to Shanghai," an exciting action picture starring Irene Hervey and Kent Taylor, who receive able support from Henry Stephenson, J. Edward Bromberg and George Zucco.

Hunt Stromberg Doesn't Believe in "Type-Casting"

Hunt Stromberg, whose first independent production, "Lady of Burlesque," is being shown at the Maryland theater through United Artists release, is one Hollywood producer who doesn't believe in so-called "type-casting."

Years ago when he created a new type of murder-mystery in Dashiell Hammett's "The Thin Man," he explained his unprecedented success by insisting that a mystery story, such as this, demanded fresh screen interpretation. From New York he brought James Stewart, Cesar Romero, Edward Ellis and several other actors who had never been in front of a camera before. All these newcomers earned plenty of applause for themselves in this film and in many others that followed.

"The Thin Man" also created new careers for William Powell and Myrna Loy, who were both pretty much in a screen rut at that particular moment.

Former Local Man Gets High Position With Insurance Company

Word has been received here that Richard F. Blaul, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Blaul, 5308 Gwynn Oak avenue, formerly of Cumberland, and nephew of Mrs. P. W. Cavanaugh, the Dingle, has been promoted to assistant to Ros Laub, vice-president in charge of all agencies of the Monarch Life Insurance Company, Springfield, Mass.

He has been chosen for his ability both on inside management functions and as a supervisor in the field to help the general agents with their problems, company officials said.

Blaul started with Monarch in 1939 as a personal producer and later did supervisory work in the Baltimore office. Before that he was editor and publisher of a weekly magazine, a sales representative for the National Cash Register Company, and salesman and supervisor for one of the large life insurance companies.

Blaul is a graduate of Allegheny high school, class of 1928.

Two Local Women Begin Proceedings In Divorce Suits

Two bills of complaint were filed on the chancery docket in circuit court Tuesday.

Seeking a partial divorce, Evelyn Katherine Williams filed a bill against Jackson Benton Williams. They were married September 13, 1940, and lived together until February 6 of this year. One child was born of the marriage.

Mrs. Williams asks that she be granted custody of the child and that the defendant pay counsel fees and temporary alimony. A court order signed by Associate Judge William A. Huster, directed the defendant to pay $40 counsel fees and $10 a week alimony pending final settlement of the suit.

A bill of complaint was also filed by Lorraine Logue who seeks an absolute divorce from Charles Logue. They were married August 6, 1942, in Pecos, Tex., and no children were born of the marriage. Mrs. Logue asks the right to resume her maiden name, Lorraine Bennett.

Volunteer Bean Pickers And Their Parents Will Attend Two Meetings

Plans for Allegheny county high school girls to assist in harvesting the bean crop in Garrett county during the month of August will be outlined by B. O. Alken, principal of Accident high school and John H. Carter, of Oakland, county farm agent, at two meetings scheduled for Friday.

The first meeting will be held at 4 p. m. in Bruce high school, West-ernport, and the second at Fort Hill high school on the same day at 7:45 p. m.

Girl volunteers will be quartered at the 4-H camp at Bittling during the bean-picking season. Students and their parents are invited to attend both meetings.

Two Wills Probated In Orphans' Court

Two wills were entered for probate in orphans' court Tuesday.

The will of Thomas P. Albright, who died May 20 of this year, named his wife, Eliza E. Albright, beneficiary of his entire estate. If she is not living, the estate goes to his son, William P. Albright, who was also named executor. The will was dated March 23, 1938.

Mrs. Lewis Stump, who died June 3 of this year, named her nephew, Thomas Garrett Long and Robert Long, executors and beneficiaries of her estate, according to terms of her will as probated yesterday. Since they are both out-of-state residents, Isaac T. Long, Oldtown, was also named executor.

Afraid To Lose Girl, Boy Dodges Draft

BALTIMORE, June 23. (AP)—A youth who gave his name as William H. Holzschuh told United States Commissioner James K. Cullen today that he was afraid he would lose his girl if he went into the army and so had forged a letter to his draft board.

Cullen ordered the youth held under $1,000 bond for further hearing two weeks from today and said he would be inclined to dismiss the case if Holzschuh were inducted before then.

Holzschuh, 20, of Towson, Md., said he was willing to go into the army or navy now.

The letter he was alleged to have written to the Towson draft board was signed with the name of a merchant marine officer and stated that Holzschuh was a merchant marine seaman. The draft board at Towson, after receiving the letter, classified him 1-C, he told Cullen.

This Judge Works In Machine Shop

ABERDEEN, S. D. (AP)—There'll be no morning session in Judge Van Buren Perry's circuit courtroom for the duration.

He's taken a job in a machine shop turning out vital war products during the morning. Tinkering with machinery has always been the judge's hobby and, he said, "Besides I have had difficulty living on my 1989 salary and decided to do something about it." (The State constitution of 1889 fixed the judges' emoluments.)

Judge Perry's side job pays him $37.50 a week.

Government Condemns Land in Garrett For Dam Project

Condemnation papers have been served on several score Garrett county land owners, by Deputy United States Marshal Howard P. Loughrie. The land is part of 693.21 acres which the federal government will take over for a dam project.

Loughrie said it required two weeks to serve the papers. He said the dam will back up water in the Friendsville-Selbyport area and the government has placed on deposit with the district court in Baltimore $66,855 for compensation to the owners of the land. The federal court order was signed by Judge W. Calvin Chesnut.

The dam, which will be built near Confluence, Pa., on the Youghiogheny river, is another in a series of barriers to control flood waters which threaten Pittsburgh, Pa., and that section. The Youghiogheny empties into the Monongahela at Confluence and it in turn joins the Allegheny at Pittsburgh to form the Ohio river.

Yanks, Senators Divide; Candini Scores Win No. 7

"Sore Arm" Kid Cops Opener 8-0 and Bombers Take Nightcap, 4-0

By NED FEDER

NEW YORK, June 23. (AP)—Milo Candini has the Washington Senators knocking at the American League door today by pitching the seventh victory of his undefeated season, 8 to 0, in the opener of a doubleheader against the Yankees.

But the Nats couldn't stand the prosperity, fell apart ahead to blow the nightcap 4 to 0 and left the New Yorkers two games in front of the parade.

Candini, the "sore-arm" kid who was tossed into a deal between the Nats and the Yankees during the winter, faced his former mates for the first time and served up a six-hitter in the first game as the Senators thumped three New York hurlers for eleven blows.

In the nightcap, Tiny Bonham and Alex Carrasquel hooked up in a close one for awhile, but an error and a wild pitch, along with three hits and a walk, treated the Yankees to four unearned runs in the third inning and Tiny just coasted along from there for his sixth success of the campaign against two setbacks.

Candini put on quite a show for the 11,354 paying customers on hand. He not only handcuffed the Yankees all the way as he rounded out a run of forty-nine and two-thirds innings in which he has allowed only four earned runs, but he helped himself to a double and homer inside the park.

His mates sewed up the game early, getting two runs in the first frame as Spud Chandler walked three of the first four men he faced and ex-Yankee Gerry Friddy brought the tallies home with a "blooper" hit to right.

Things were going neatly for the Nats in the nightcap as the first two Yankees went down in the third. But Frankie Crosetti, who took over his old shortstop duties in the second game, and Stainback singled in succession and Charley Keller walked to load the bases. Ellis Kler then took Johnny Lindell's roller and threw it into the dirt past first base and two runs came in. Nick Eiten next singled run No. 3 across and Carrasquel wild-pitched the fourth Yankee marker in—and there was your ball game. The scores:

NEW YORK, June 23. (AP)—Capitulating on Claude Passeau's five-hit pitching, the Chicago Cubs defeated Pittsburgh, 4 to 1, in the first game of a doubleheader today, thereby winning three games in a row for the first time this season and climbing out of the cellar for the first time since May 14. Then the Pirates, led by Bob Elliott's double and three singles, took the nightcap, 7 to 5.

Despite the second-game defeat, the Cubs remained in seventh place, one-half game ahead of the New York Giants, who lost twice to Brooklyn.

A three-run sixth inning against Wally Hebert in the opener broke a 1-1 tie and gave Passeau his season's fifth victory against five defeats.

Hank Gornicki, third Pittsburgh pitcher, received credit for the victory in the second game after shutting out the Cubs the last four innings. His mates, meantime, scored two runs off Les Fleming, fourth of five Cub pitchers, to shatter a 5-5 deadlock in the seventh inning.

Lon Warneke started for the Cubs, but had to retire during the second inning because of a back ache. Attendance was 8,893. The scores:

Galento's Bouts Must Be Billed As "Entertainment"

NBA Notes "Unfavorable Washback" Wherever Tony Appears

PATERSON, N. J., June 23. (AP)—Taking note of "an unfavorable washback" whenever Tony Galento has appeared recently, the National Boxing Association ruled today that any "barnstorming" the Orange round man does from now on "will be strictly as entertainment and not in the guise of boxing competition."

Abe Greene, NBA president, said he had advised Tony and his manager, Willie Gilzberg, of the ruling, and that Gilzberg assured him that from now on any bookings made for Tony will be "on the strict representation that he is appearing for exhibitions only."

"Galento has been bouncing around the country," Greene pointed out, "knocking out a wrestler here, an old-timer there, a couple of spare hands as an extra bargain. But because the general impression has been that he was on a comeback tour, an unfavorable washback has resulted in those cities where he has played. This will be eliminated now, and promoters and commissions will be protected against unfavorable reactions resulting from improper publicity. Fans who go to see Galento henceforth will know just what they're going to see."

"In assuring me that Tony will go along with this ruling, Gilzberg told me that when Galento is ready for genuine fistic action, he will notify the NBA. Until that time, there need be no misinterpretation of his appearances."

Haegg, with Competition Limited, May Be Unable To Shatter Records

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK, June 23. (AP)—It looks now as if Gunder Haegg will have to race a jeep if we are going to see him break any world records over here unless this two-legged Count Fleet has a very vivid imagination and can picture himself being chased by goblins.

There is nothing like competition or a good, healthy scare to make a person's feet do astonishing things, and right now it seems Haegg's competition might be limited to his shadow. Greg Rice has been removed from the picture by his duties in the maritime service, and unless Gil Dadds can urge his lean frame to greater speed than he has shown in the 1,500-meter event, Gunder will be running alone.

It is too bad the calendar can't be turned back a few years to when Glenn Cunningham was in his prime. He is the only man who has run a mile faster than Haegg, and under conditions which prevent the feat from being accepted as a record.

We have an idea that Cunningham still could run a pretty fair mile, but not fair enough. He's old as trackmen go and the last two or three years has been in the process of unwinding. That is, he figures that during his competitive days he slowly was winding himself tight as you would wind an alarm clock, and that a gradual unwinding is necessary for his own good.

Anyway, inasmuch as it happens that Haegg won't be able to find adequate competition, we would like to make a suggestion.

The track fans want to see records broken, even if they are broken under circumstances not according to Hoyle, or the A. A. U. Cunningham's 4:04.4 mile still is mentioned as often or oftener than the accepted record, although it was made indoors with benefit of pacemakers.

Personally, we would like to see records made under such circumstances accepted. The guy actually ran that fast without benefit of roller skates or following wind. There was nothing freakish about it.

Inasmuch as the public likes to see records bettered, even though they aren't accepted, and as an incentive usually is needed for record performance, it might not be a bad idea for meet officials to provide an incentive, no matter how synthetic, for Haegg.

That is, in a 1,500 meter race put him up against two good half milers, running as a relay, and in a two-mile race give him a couple of milers to match strides with.

Never Pushed into Record
If he has any imagination at all

350 Troops See Indians, Tigers Split Twin-Bill

Bengals Take Opener 3-1 and Tribe Cops Eleven-Inning Nightcap 9-6

DETROIT, June 23. (AP)—Under the careful scrutiny of 350 armed troops, the Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians divided a double-header today at Briggs stadium, the Tigers taking the opener 3 to 1 on Hal Newhouse's five-hitter and the Indians winning the nightcap 9 to 6 on Jeff Heath's eleventh inning homer.

The rifle-bearing soldiers, members of the Michigan state troops, were stationed in small groups throughout the vast stadium as a precaution against further manifestations of Detroit's racial strife.

The Tiger front office announced that tomorrow's final game of the series would be played at 6 p. m. with approval of military authorities.

Newhouse gained his fifth victory in the opener by pitching a shutout until the Indians got an unearned run with two out in the ninth on Ken Keltner's third single. Newhouse has yielded eight earned runs this season in eighty-six and one-third innings.

The Tigers spotted Newhouse a two-run first inning lead on Roger Cramer's single, a triple by Joe Wood and Dick Wakefield's fly. Joe Hoover singled across another in the sixth.

The nightcap was a battle of home runs. The Tribe had a five-run second inning off little Hal White, but homers by Pinky Higgins, Dick Wakefield and Rudy York, the last with a mate aboard in the eighth that tied the score at six runs, sent the game into extra play.

In the eleventh, Heath belted a two-run homer, his third of the season, off Henry Oana, Hawaiian right-hander who signed today and was the third Tiger pitcher. Buddy Rosar singled home another run for good measure. That permitted Lefty Al Milnar to gain his first 1943 victory.

It was Wakefield's first major league homer. The scores:

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Controlling Soil Moisture in Victory Garden

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Cultivation of the garden to many Victory gardeners merely means destroying the weed growth, but cultivation actually has another very important function, namely, that of establishing a dust mulch on the soil surface. This dust mulch is of great importance in conserving moisture in the soil.

As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, the dust mulch does not completely stop evaporation, it retards it to such a degree that the roots of plants are able to utilize more moisture than they would otherwise.

The mulching of plants is another method of holding moisture in the soil, especially during warm weather.

er. Almost anything in the form of vegetation or manure will serve as mulching material.

The most effective way to apply mulch is to scratch up the soil so that it is loose around each plant and then place the mulching material around each plant, as illustrated, or along the row. Many gardeners make a saucer-shaped depression around each plant into which they place the mulching material.

Use enough mulch to make a good collar around each plant. If the mulch shrinks or decays away, or if the increased size of the growing plant indicates the need of a larger collar, add more mulching material.

TOPS AND BOTTOMS

DUPLICATE play is extremely interesting to the beginner who picks out some promising hand early in a session and then follows it from table to table to see what is done with it. Sometimes he will find one which gets played about equally at two entirely different contracts, either of which can be made by perfect play, but also either of which can be beaten by the declarer's slips. No matter how fine may be the players engaged, you are likely to find both contracts made and beaten.

That bidding brought the top score to the declarer, Simon Rossant, in the recent Eastern championships in New York. But let's start with the bottom, gained by a player who has ranked No. 1 in the whole world in his best season. He was a 3-No Trump declarer in the North, and East led the heart 6. He won that with the A, then finessed the club 10 to the singleton J. Five hearts then set him two tricks. At another table that contract was made because North, after winning with the heart A, considered his best chance to run nine consecutive tricks was to lead the club Q. East covered, the A won, dropping the J, and repeated club finesse trapped East's other clubs, producing four tricks in the suit.

Mr. Rossant's top score came from getting two extra tricks on his 4-Clubs doubled. The spade J was led to the A, and he led the club Q, which East covered, the A winning. A diamond toward the dummy brought forth West's K and a spade return. A diamond finesse and repeated club finesse gave him the rest of the tricks. On this same contract, another declarer who has been No. 1 of the world for a season got himself set. He lost two club tricks by finessing the 10 to the J, and a later one to the 8, plus two diamond tricks because he first led the J and East refused to cover, so that the defense scored with both the K and the 9, after the Q covered the 10 lead.

What is South's soundest plan at 3-No Trumps on this deal after West leads the heart 3?

Rubber Workers And Kelly Sign New Contract

New Agreement Will Be in Effect until July 1, 1944

Local 26 of the United Rubber Workers of America yesterday signed a contract with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and the Kelly-Springfield Engineering Company, John E. Sharp, president of the union, announced yesterday.

The new labor agreement will be in effect until July 1, 1944. It culminates eleven months of negotiations between the union and the company. The previous contract expired July 1, 1942.

Two clauses in the contract, relating to wages and the union shop and check off, were included subject to the approval of the National War Labor Board.

Negotiations Started Feb. 1

The agreement was signed by Edmund S. Burke, president, for the company and by John E. Sharp, president; Roy E. Davy, vice president; Ralph C. Beard, division chairman, and Raymond C. Burkhardt, former president, for the union.

Since February 1, negotiations between the company and the union have been carried on under parts of the new contract that were mutually agreed upon, Sharp said.

Some of the features of the newly signed agreement are:

Workers who have two years service will receive one week's vacation with pay or two per cent of their yearly earnings if they choose to work. All workers having five years of service are to receive two weeks vacation with pay or four per cent of their annual earnings.

Upgrading of jobs will be based upon seniority, ability and aptitude. Shift preference is to be governed by seniority.

Grievance Procedure Set Up

A uniform grievance procedure has been set up.

Six months accumulated service will be allowed for maternity leaves.

Accumulated service for men in the armed service to include not more than sixty days after discharge from the service.

A labor-management committee set-up has been agreed upon and will include four representatives each from the union and the company.

New employees have a guaranteed week-up rate.

Committees and officers of the union are guaranteed seniority on their respective shifts.

Sharp also announced that the eighteen mechanics transferred from the Celanese plant to the Kelly through negotiation with Textile local 1874 will receive the vacation bonus to be paid at the rubber workers rate of pay.

Guards at the Kelly-Springfield Engineering Company and the Pinto plant of the company who were recently certified by the National Labor Relations Board, Sharp said, will meet early next week to elect division chairmen to represent them in negotiations for a new contract.

The guards, Sharp asserted, will begin negotiations next week for the agreement. The new union is affiliated, Sharp added, with the United Rubber Workers, Local 26.

Each member of the union, Sharp concluded, will be given a copy of the new working agreement.

Fishing for Bass in Potomac River Is Legal July 1

West Virginia Anglers Must Observe Dates Adopted by Maryland

West Virginia's bass fishing season is scheduled to open Saturday, June 26, but bass cannot be taken from the Potomac river by residents of that state holding special $1.75 licenses until the Maryland season comes in on Thursday, July 1, it was announced last evening by Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden.

Receives Many Inquiries

Minke said that he has received numerous inquiries from West Virginians anxious to know whether it is legal for them to fish in the Potomac when the bass season opens in their state. Such a procedure is illegal according to an act passed at the recent session of the legislature.

However, West Virginians possessing a special license may take bass from the Potomac from July 1 to November 30, the Maryland dates, provided they fish from the West Virginia bank, wade in the stream or fish from a boat. Those desiring to fish from the Maryland bank, however, must purchase a non-resident license for $5.50.

The creel limit for bass in Maryland is one a day and the minimum size is ten inches.

Names Best Bass Streams

Minke said that the best bass fishing in Allegany county is at a point where the South Branch flows into the Potomac river. In Garrett county, the out-standing bass waters are Deep Creek lake, which has been well stocked, the Youghiogheny and Castleman rivers. He added that Washington county has the best bass fishing streams in the state.

The bass season in Pennsylvania opens on July 1 and the best nearby waters are Lake Gordon and Lake Koon, the sources of Cumberland's water supply.

The trout season in Maryland, which opened April 15, will close on July 15.

Nurse Recruitment Committee Members To Attend Meeting

With plans completed for the conference of Red Cross recruitment committees in the Third Service Command, delegates from Red Cross chapters in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia will meet in Baltimore, June 30.

Taking part in a panel discussion of nurse recruitment problems will be Miss Sadie Gladwin, chairman of the local Red Cross nurse recruitment committee.

Meetings of the various service commands have been called to give impetus to the Red Cross drive to recruit 36,000 nurses for the armed forces, 100,000 nurses' aides and one million home nursing students.

Miss Mary Small, secretary of the local Red Cross committee, also will attend the Baltimore meeting.

First Lieut. David H. Murrie, air corps, has been transferred to Basic Training Center No. 8, Army Air Forces Technical Training Command, Fresno, Cal., where he is plans and training officer of the Eight Hundred and First Training Group and commanding officer of the One Hundred Twenty-first Squadron, Eight hundred and First Training Group.

James Francis, of Lonaconing, has arrived at the finance replacement training center at Fort Benning.

Ridgeley Officials Conduct Drive To Wipe Out Rowdiness on Sunday

Fire Flareback Burns Railroader

Robert L. Swick, Western Maryland Employee Is Admitted to Hospital

Suffering second degree burns of his face when flames flared back as he lighted a fire in a locomotive, Robert L. Swick, 27-year-old Western Maryland railway employee, Ridgeley, W. Va., was admitted to Memorial hospital at 3:30 p. m. yesterday. He is employed in the shops at Knobmount.

Besides the more severe facial burns, hospital attaches said Swick suffered superficial burns of his left arm, left hand and both legs. He is not believed to be seriously burned and attaches said he was resting fairly comfortable last night.

Charles Wood, 33, Selbst, an employee of the Hazelwood Construction Company, suffered minor injuries of his right side, back and right wrist yesterday morning while working at Mt. Savage. Attaches at Memorial hospital where he was taken for treatment at 11:30 a. m. said Wood was carrying steel across a walkway when it gave way and he fell.

Nancy Ann Wilson, 7, daughter of Mrs. Lois Wilson, 609 North Mechanic street, was treated in Allegheny hospital at 12:30 p. m. yesterday when she fell while playing, lacerating the inner side of her leg below the knee on the edge of the porch.

Girl Is Bitten While Petting Dog

Bitten on her upper lip while petting a dog, Maxine Lampe, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lampe, 17 Somerville avenue, was treated in Memorial hospital at 9 p. m. yesterday for a small laceration.

Parlors Close Earlier

Several beer parlors in Ridgeley, which formerly observed a Sunday midnight closing hour, voluntarily closed their doors last Sunday at 11 p. m., in an effort to help town officials stamp out rowdiness.

A number of beer parlors, however, are still keeping open until midnight, Morgan asserted.

"Those who figure on coming to Ridgeley to create rowdiness on Sunday had better change their

Mayor Sounds Warning to Drunks; 25 Arrests Made in Two Weeks

Sounding a warning that rowdiness and drunkenness will not be tolerated in Ridgeley, Mayor Paul K. Morgan last evening stated that approximately twenty-five out-of-town "celebrators" have been arrested and fined on various charges in the West Virginia community across the Potomac river the past two Sundays.

"Complaints that intoxicated persons were roaming the streets and insulting citizens came to my attention several weeks ago," Morgan declared, "and we started a clean-up campaign which netted fifteen offenders on Sunday, June 12."

Fines Average $10

The Ridgeley mayor said that ten more arrests were made last Saturday and Sunday, the majority on the latter day, and most of those nabbed by the law forfeited their collateral. The fines and costs averaged about $10 a person, according to J. C. Arrington, chief of police.

Those arrested last Sunday and the charges to which they pleaded guilty were:

John Oates, no address, drunk; Francis McGoye, Pinto, drunk; Robert Walker, Cumberland, drunk; Matthew Sabar, hauling four passengers in the front seat of a coupe; Joseph Kenny, Green Spring, reckless driving; Paul Cooper, Brookland, Ark., hauling four passengers in the front seat of a car; Mary Mickey, Cumberland, drunk; Elmer Loar, Midland, disorderly conduct; Warren Elliott, Baltimore, drunk; and Charles Winfield, Cresaptown, drunk.

Morgan attributed the increase of rowdiness in Ridgeley to the recent influx of persons from Cumberland as a result of the all-day closing order observed by private clubs on the Sabbath.

"Such disorder did not prevail in Ridgeley when the clubs were in operation in Cumberland on Sunday," Morgan declared.

Woman Is Freed From Maryland Prison on Writ

Judge Huster Finds Juvenile Court Had No Jurisdiction in Case

Contending that she was sentenced to the Maryland House of Correction by a court that had no jurisdiction, Mrs. Stella Fishell was given her freedom yesterday morning in circuit court when Associate Judge William A. Huster granted her request for a writ of habeas corpus.

Mrs. Fishell was sentenced to a year in the house of correction by Mrs. Elizabeth R. Menefee, judge of the juvenile court, but in the order releasing Mrs. Fishell from prison, signed by Judge Huster, the latter stated it was shown the juvenile court did not have jurisdiction as the crime for which "Stella Fishell was convicted originated in the state of West Virginia."

The warrant for Mrs. Fishell's arrest had been obtained by Jacob D. Fishell who charged her with desertion of three minor children. The warrant was signed by Mrs. Menefee who subsequently tried Mrs. Fishell and sentenced her on April 9 to one year in the house of correction.

On June 15, through her attorney, Charles G. Watson, Mrs. Fishell filed a petition against Dr. J. Leroy Wright, Warden of the house of correction, claiming she was "illegally restrained of her liberty" and seeking a writ of habeas corpus which Judge Huster granted.

Charles Logue Is Sued for Divorce

A suit for absolute divorce was filed in the clerk's office in the court house yesterday by Lorraine Logue against Charles Logue. Through her attorney, Edward J. Ryan, Mrs. Logue states that she was married August 6, 1942, in Pecos, Tex., and that no children were born of the marriage. She asks the right to resume her maiden name of Bennett.

A bill of complaint was filed by Gilbert W. Godlove against Virginia Lee Godlove. The records were removed from the file.

Twelve Boy Scout Troops Reserve Sites at Camp

Five Cumberland Units Sign Up; Major Van DeBoe Conducts Inventory

Twelve troops have made reservations for eleven out of a possible sixteen sites available at Camp Potomac, located on the South Branch near Springfield, W. Va., for the annual summer camp of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, Raymond C. Lalor, scout executive, announced yesterday.

There is still one site unreserved for the opening week, July 3 to 10, while four sites are still available for the final week, July 24 to 31. All sites have been reserved for the second and third weeks.

Troops Signed Up

The following troops already have made reservations:

First Week—No. 69, Fort Ashby; No. 25, Barton, and No. 33, Piedmont.

Second Week—No. 15, Fort Hill high; No. 13, First Presbyterian church, Cumberland; No. 2, Baltimore and Ohio Y. M.C.A., Cumberland, and No. 23, United Brethren church, Cumberland.

Third Week—No. 30, Piedmont; No. 19, St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed church, Cumberland; Nos. 34 and 62, Piedmont, and No. 67, Beryl, W. Va.

The pioneer squad will go to Springfield next Monday for the purpose of setting-up the camp.

W. Donald Smith is chairman of the camping committee; M. I. Haines, of Romney, camp director; William Michael, Romney, waterfront director, and Sam Shank, cook.

Transportation Arranged

Arrangements have been made to use two buses each week. One will leave from Piedmont high school each Saturday of the camp season at 11 a. m., and the other will leave from Riverside park, Greene street, at the same time. Fare for the bus will be taken out of the registration fee whether or not it is used. The council must pay for the chartering of buses whether full or empty. Returning buses will leave the camp at 2 p. m.

By paying $5 in addition to the registration fee, campers have the privilege of eating at the camp dinner shelter. Troops may continue to do their own cooking as in the past.

Swimming and boating will be permitted only at specified hours, and under supervision of the camp waterfront director.

The following schedule will apply to the entire camp:

7 a. m., cooks up early; 8 a. m., reveille; 8:30, breakfast; 11:30, beginners' swim; 12:15, morning swim; 1 p. m., lunch and rest period; 3, rest period over; 5:15, afternoon swim; 6:15, supper; 9:45, call to quarters; 10 p. m., Taps.

Visitors will be welcome to the camp on Sundays and Wednesdays.

Conducts Inventory

Major D. G. Van DeBoe, deputy regional executive of the Boy Scouts of America, Philadelphia, is here for several days conducting an inventory prior to the departure next week of Lalor for Johnson City, Tenn., where he will become scout executive of the council there. The purpose of the inventory is to have all available information and records ready for Lalor's successor, who will be chosen by a selection committee of the council, headed by Dr. A. H. Hawkins. The names of five persons have been submitted to the committee as possible successors to the present chief.

VICTORY PLACQUE—Shown above is a picture of a plaque, bearing ten gold stars and representing a perfect "Serving for Victory" score, which was presented to the local plant of the Bell telephone system last night. The presentation was made by A. B. Haneke, of Baltimore, vice president and general manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore. Similar plaques will be awarded to plants of the C. and P. throughout its territory. (See story this page).

Japs are hard to kill. But army ordnance weapons are designed for use in all theaters of war.

On Attu Island, the Japs constructed innumerable earth huts and foxholes. They fought from these underground dwellings, which were interconnected, and could only be smoked out after fierce hand-to-hand fighting.

During the American attack, according to reports received by Maj. E. J. Hill, commanding officer of the Allegany Ordnance plant, our caliber .50 machine guns and 81-mm mortars were particularly effective in silencing Jap 3-inch gun emplacements.

The name "stinger" has been applied by American fighters to the caliber .50 machine gun which gets its "sting" from such ammunition as is made at the Allegany Ordnance plant. The caliber .50 machine gun is widely used in the air over Europe, on the fringes of Henderson Field on Guadalcanal, in New Guinea jungles, on PT boats, and on the long sea lanes between the United States and its overseas bases. It won new laurels on Attu.

One of the major lessons of the battle of Attu is that Japs must be killed the hard way—by close-in fighting. Long range air and naval bombardment will help; but if the enemy is to be thrown out of the island stepping stones that lead to Tokyo, if the Philippines and Burma are to be liberated, guerrilla fighting is inevitable.

A booklet on the Seabees is just off the press and a copy of it has been received by Chatter. Briefly, the Seabees, the fighting construction battalions of the navy, want skilled construction workers and longshoremen in any of more than 100 civilian trades.

Those 17-years-old, or from 18 to 50 may join by voluntary enlistment. Those from 18 to 38 may join by a new plan of voluntary induction, approved by the joint Army-Navy Personnel Board.

In either case the first step for the applicant is to get full information at the nearest navy recruiting station.

According to the booklet, the Seabees offer many important advantages to patriotic construction men who want to serve their country. They have the opportunity to qualify for any of fifty-four construction jobs—with higher ratings and higher pay—based on their ability and experience.

They are assured, in advance, of going into the service of their choice. And, they can follow their own trade in the navy.

Those within the draft ages need make no commitment with their local Selective Service boards until they have received full information from the navy recruiting station.

CLANCEY BROTHERS CELEBRATE REUNION AT FORT EUSTIS, VA.

This is a story about two Irishmen—Mike and Joe—Cumberland brothers, who had not seen each other in five years, and neither knew that the other was in the armed forces until they met recently in camp at Fort Eustis, Va. Mike Clancey, former Cumberlander, has been in Detroit for the last twelve years. He had not seen his brother Joe, well known local amateur baseball player, since 1938. Both were inducted into the army without the other's knowledge of the fact.

Mike arrived from Camp Custer the day following Joe's arrival at Fort Eustis, and they both eyed each other up and down a few times before they decided they were brothers.

They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Clancey, of 307 Bedford street.

Another brother, Eugene F. Clancey, in the United States Navy, is now somewhere in the South Pacific.

Local Telephone Company Plant Receives Award

Represents Perfect Score for Service; Pins Awarded 125 Employees

An emblematic plaque, bearing ten gold stars and representing a perfect "Serving for Victory" score, was presented to the local plant of the Bell telephone system at a patriotic ceremony last night at the gymnasium of the Central M.C.A., attended by visiting officials, more than a hundred employees and several guests.

Similar plaques are being awarded plants of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore, the general manager, who made the presentation, said that Cumberland was the first to receive one with an all perfect score.

The plaques carry scores of local and toll services, good record in each class for each month of the year being indicated by gold and silver stars, the gold ones representing perfect records and the silver ones the next ranking record. Cumberland scored perfectly in both classifications for each of the first five months of this year.

Employees Receive Pins

In addition, silver "Serving for Victory" pins were awarded each member of the company's local service, 125 in number.

In presenting the pins, A. B. Haneke, of Baltimore, vice president and general manager, referred to remarks recently made to Maj. Gen. Olmstead, chief signal officer of the army, and Vice Adm. Horn of the navy.

"The country demands dependable communications under all conditions," the former said. "You are doing your part in holding the lines of communication for us. 'Telephone people' said Adm. Horn, 'are all a part of an invincible army, and as such are just as vital to the armed services in the prosecution of the war as the sailors on a battleship or the marines on Guadalcanal.'"

Maj. E. J. Hill, commanding officer of the Allegany Ordnance Plant, brought a similar message from his department, congratulating the telephone workers on the achievement and pointing out that it could not have been attained except for excellent organization, well trained personnel and a completely patriotic resolution.

Paul Wilson, master of ceremonies, introduced the visiting officials of the company and its guests, who included, in addition to those named, Melvin C. Ross, of Baltimore, general plant manager; K. Wheat, of Baltimore, general service manager; W. F. Johnson, district traffic manager; C. J. Smith, district plant manager, and Robert L. Schieffelin, district commercial manager, all of Hagerstown; Tucker G. Lowndes, a director of the company; J. H. Cronwell, the local manager; Paul Martin-Dillon of the Cumberland Evening Times; and William L. Geppert, of the Cumberland News.

Parade of Colors

The program carried out included a parade of colors, with United States, Maryland and Bell system flags carried by Misses Elizabeth Hartman, Doris Orndorff and Ellen Wright, of the traffic department; a solo by Mrs. Alpharetta King Parker and group singing led by Miss Maxine Smith, of the traffic department.

Following the program, refreshments were served in the "Y" club room. Preceding it, the visiting officials were entertained at dinner in the local plant offices.

The "Serving for Victory" pins are being awarded to some 6,000 telephone men and women throughout Maryland by the company and as a recognition of their efforts in rendering vital communications service during the war period.

"This emblem," Haneke said, "is an acknowledgment by the company of local and faithful service, and a to be worn as a constant reminder to those who wear it and those who see it that the telephone employee is engaged in vital war work and has the responsibility of furnishing fast, accurate and dependable telephone service needed by our country in the present emergency."
